

A vest you could learn to love is natural coyote trimmed with white fox at the mandarin collar and shoulders.

leather belt. Like so many of the car coat length furs, it is super practical—great over boots and slacks and just as nice with evening wear.

Hudson's has a Blass design which is a full length ranch mink with a yoke back and button front with a matching raincoat—just in case the north winds bring rain or sleet with them.

The short coats are also seen in fox, nutria, lamb, raccoon and various combinations and shades of mink. Many of these are belted, some are trimmed with leather detailing at collar and cuffs or the sweater which nips in for a slim line.

For beauty and elegance, few furs top lynx, Canadian or American. One of the prizes of the Chudik collection is an Alaskan cat lynx cape with colors and markings so well matched that it looks like a single, lovely pelt.

An Oleg Cassini natural Canadian lynx in Hudson's collection is slightly high-waisted, a full length coat with a wide sweep from waist to hemline. Though it leads the glam or list, lynx still accessorizes to become an all occasion fur.

This year's furs are designed to be worn and enjoyed from early morning to late evening.

Fall Hair Fashion Forecast From Heidi's Salons

The nova cut, permed for curl or naturally free, is custom made for fall-winter's tailored emphasis in women's fashion apparel. The short cut features a tapered neckline and exposed ears.

Heidi Salons, at Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield and also Evergreen and and Nine Mile in Southfield, predict "The Wedge" (the style with which Dorothy Hamill skated into fashion) is now passe. It will be replaced by "The Nova", the bright star of the fall and winter season.

In its most popular form, the Nova is a short-all-over cut, with the ears exposed and the neckline tapered, according to Heidi Brancheau, who recently returned with two of her stylists (Sue Davidson and Rose Trevino) from the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association annual convention in Minneapolis.

Upon their return, classes were held in the salon to instruct other members of Heidi's staff to perfect the cutting of the Nova.

Heidi's Salons have long been regarded as "The Salons." The shops are beautiful, the staff excellent, the work sensational. When Heidi's designers get together, their ideas generate innovations. Individual members of this highly trained staff are constantly touring the U.S. and Europe to bring back the latest in hair designs.

Mrs. Brancheau, a hair coloring specialist, also predicts a new trend in hair coloring. Shaded hair, long favored by chic women of all ages, will lose its appeal, and the latest fashion will be tones in the auburn and brown families. The result will be a totally new look that women will find most flattering.
