

To see a fine lady

'These are styles that go on forever'

Rosette Ajluni's name is usually mentioned when fashion-conscious persons discuss "best dressed women" in this area.

American designer Bill Blass - whom she admits is her favorite - once said to her: "You can always look back at your pictures and not be embarrassed."

"What Bill Blass meant by that," said the beautiful Bloomfield Township mother of four and wife of Dr. Roger Ajluni, "is that I never go for the fad in fashion."

"I don't have to read Women's Wear Daily to find out what they say I should be wearing, or what a designer says I should wear."

Although she buys from the collections of designers whose clothes she likes, Mrs. Aj luni says she has definite ideas about what she wants and needs and makes her own decisions.

"You won't be seeing me in feathers or those Indian scarves tied around my head. And you didn't see me in hot pants up to here," she continued.

"My fashion philosophy is simply that I always dress the way I feel most comfortable - and that is ladylike and tailored for daytime and a softer, glamorous look in evening gowns. These are the styles that go on forever."

Mrs. Ajluni describes her lifestyle and that of her family as casual.

Although she belongs to organizations

continued on page 10

Franck Olivier

A 3-piece ensemble designed to fit any fashion model from Franck Olivier. The all silk blouse ($89) is available in grey or beige. The blazer ($142) and skirt ($75) are of wool gabardine, and available in black, brown, taupe, navy, white and raisin. The shoes ($56) are from Pankin, Int. and the suede handbag ($64), by Jay Herbert, is available in grey, black or navy.

millie

The unexpected part of I. Miller at Somerset Mall 643-7444

"For me this is a fun outfit," says Rosette Ajluni of Bloomfield Township. She selected it from the fall collection of Yves Saint Laurent shown recently at Jacobsons in Birmingham. The look is from Saint Laurent's "peasant" look. The material is wool challis, worn with a silk shirt and boots. (Staff photo by Barbara McClellan)