I've received an introduction of sorts to a gentleman named Heusenberg who is well known in the field of chemistry. My daughter, who's in mathematics and thus by necessity a lot closer to chemistry than her wrater mother, recommended him to me.

than her writer mother, recommended hum to me.

He gained fame for an original bit of thinking known as the uncertainty prosname cropped up recently in a bunch of sumper sinchers that her school's chapter of the American Chemical Society printed.
She thought the gentleman is fame in the field of uncertainty made the stucker statimig "Heisenberg might have slept here" a worthy addition to the group that also includes "Chemists have solutions" and coulder "Chemists have solutions" and also gave me an introduction of sorts to Avogadro but I can't seem to remember his numerical claim to fame:

By MARGARET MILLER

ANYWAY, it was that uncertainty principle that interested me. She says it has to do with molecules in the air, which leaves me off in left field I have a sneaking suspeon it and entirely clear to her, either in thought of a few more applications. It propably explains shy I never know how the property of the property has been gobbling for weeks!

If GIVES ME a handle on the purifiment of how many softs will be missing when I do the next wash and shors lakely to be home for the next dinner I cook and whether the prospect of sloppy yes will evake an immm for a "yuk".

It even helpin explain why I don't know for jure there will be room on this page of the new page of the property of the work of wisdom with Mr. Heusenberg, the better to understand uncertaing about the uncertain numbers of molecules in the air.
