Chorale director, singers wanted

The Kendalarks, chorus of women who are in their 20th year of singing together in the community are looking for a new chorus director and new members for all three voice sections. Persons interested in the Kendalarks can call Betty O'Connor at 625-3004 for information. Rehearsals are underway now for the 1976-77 season, which includes learning new music for the holiday season. Norma Niblett of Farmington Hills is the Kendalarks' new accompanist, who works with the group in rehearsal three Tuesdays each month in North Farmington Baptist Church on Thirteenth Mile, between Orchard Lake and Farmington Roads.

Potential members are invited visit a rehearsal. Membership is not limited to Farmington area residents. The group is scheduled to perform for the American Women's Federation of Detroit luncheon for the residents of Presbyterian Village, and during the Festival of the Trees, an annual Christmas event in Farmington Community Center.

The chorus repertoire consists of music by Cole Porter, patriotic songs, contemporary show tunes, and a variety of favorites. All applicants experienced in choral work will be considered for the group's new director.
