

Head start program set at Orchard Ridge

High school seniors interested in getting a head start on their college program may enroll in late afternoon or evening classes for college credit during the winter semester at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus.

According to Dr. Don Nichols, dean of students, two distinct advantages to this early start are that all transfer credits are fully acceptable at other colleges and universities and that tuition expense is about one-third the cost of credits at other institutions.

Students who wish to enroll for one year or for two-year degree programs leading to immediate employment also may start their college career early.

Parents and counselors are asked to encourage interested seniors to submit a high school transcript application prior to January 1, 1977. Copies of the winter schedule of classes will be available beginning Nov. 12. The winter semester begins Jan. 10 and continues through April 10.

Art show coming

Posters will be going up all over town this week to herald the Farmington Artists Club's Fall Art Show, set for Nov. 19-21 in the downstairs room of Farmington Hills Community Library on Twelve Mile. Sara Fox (at left) and Phyllis Mahin are two of the many local artists who will put original art up for sale. Admission is free and guests are invited to participate in the club's "Most Popular Painting" poll with their vote. (Staff photo by Harry Mauthe)
