

Tiny Tim sits at fire

Purchase of this green and yellow Christmas card of Tiny Tim warming himself before a fire will put money in the coffers of the National Fund for Sister Arlene's Cancer Research. A box of 25 of these cards costs $5. For information on this card, as well as others offered, contact Nancy Vano, 25106 Eight Mile, Southfield, 358-4569.

Moral perspectives

Does Carter hear anti-war voice?

With the Vietnam War behind us and the emphasis shifted to domestic issues such as crime and inflation, it is easy to forget the ever-escalating arms race.

It was relief that I read that president-elect Jimmy Carter is currently researching the issue of reducing atomic weapons. He calls this one of his major objectives. I believe it must be the major priority of our country and our civilization.

Months after months we read of warnings from our military leaders that the Soviet Union is moving ahead of us in the arms race. In a contest that can never be won, we still like to think that we are the front runner.

In vain I seek reports of men and women of wisdom who would commit their efforts to stop this madness. Mean while a whole new generation grows up knowing of war only through the reruns of John Wayne movies and "Patton."

If Hollywood would make a disaster film concerning an atomic war we might find more people demanding determined plans to control weapons. In many ways our country carefully avoids teaching our citizens about the tragedy and horrors of war.

Even though they use strong propaganda, Eastern European countries teach their children about the awful impact of war. School children are taken to exhibits showing the effects of the bombing of their cities. They are shown films of the concentration camps. They are taught to take war seriously.

Meanwhile we provide our children with war heroes and plastic model weapons and armaments for their play.

One person in our area who works most effectively to begin to educate children about peace and war is Mrs. Lillian Genser, director of the Center for Teaching About Peace and War on the Wayne State University campus. Her search for ways to educate peace makers of the future is exciting.

Modern war is unthinkable and this is exactly how we treat it.

We do not think seriously about it. We fail to educate people about its cost, the nature of the horrible weapons being developed, and the failure of our elected representatives to commit themselves to work toward disarmament.

We can only hope that President Jimmy Carter effectively pursues his major objective.

Sisterhood auctions art

The Sisterhood of Beth M. is sponsoring an art auction Dec. 5 in the Gallery Art Center, 322 W. Twelve Mile, Berkeley.

Available for purchase will be oil paintings, lithographs, woodcuts, metal wall hangings and table sculptures. There will be refreshments and dancing from 7-8 p.m. Auctioning begins at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1.

Fruit and evergreens

A Christmas wreath covered with colored fruit is the Yule card choice of the Michigan Chapter Arthritis Foundation, 23400 Michigan, Dearborn. Research programs will receive funds earned by the sale of the cards which cost $5 for a box of 25 plus a 75-cent shipping charge. Orders can be placed by calling the foundation at 561-9096.
