

The Presidential spread

If you don't read the label carefully, you might think President-elect Jimmy Carter is in the peanut butter business. So before making cracks from the peanut (butter) gallery, read the statement on the label which explains the product is not sponsored or endorsed or connected with James (Jimmy) E. Carter, former governor of Georgia. Tom Fanos Associates, a food brokerage firm in Southfield, will be offering the peanut butter to local supermarkets. Price is about $1 for 18 ounces. The name comes from the peanut butter's distributor, Jimmy Carter Foods in Muncie, Ind. "We don't even know exactly who made it," said Fanos office manager Jane Dehne. "It could be Jiffy peanut butter for all I know." In any event, be looking for your chance to buy a bit of Jimmy Carter in your grocery store in the next couple of weeks. (Staff photo)
