

Local Homemakers Top Stiff Competition

Blue, red and gold ribbons beset the warring entries of many Observers' homemakers at the Michigan State Fair. With entries in the Community Arts department of the fair at an all-time high, Mrs. Wilma H. Slezak, 33451 Rayburn, Livonia, won first for canned tomatoes and for potato yeast bread. Her coffee cake, canned corn and a smoked pillow won seconds and she placed with her applesauce, English muffins and canned carrots. In the Nature's Treasures division of the fair, Mrs. John Scott King, 31621 Marlehead Drive, Farmington, won first and second in flower arranging. Her blue ribbon was in the category for materials on a panel background and she won second with a "lasting memories" wreath ready to hang. Others who placed in the flower arranging competition were Mrs. Robert J. Pierocchi, 30221 Piper's Lane, and Mary Lou H. Seldon, 30102 W. 10 Mile, both of Farmington.

ANOTHER LIVONIA homemaker who was a winner in the Community Arts section was Mrs. Frances A. Crawford, 20560 Minton, with third for a fourwork dresser scarf and fourth for an infant's blanket.

PLYMOUTH residents rating prizes were Mrs. Dorothy Vee Nelson, 500 Parkview with first on a wall hanging and third for a crewel embroidery chair set; Michele Roggenbach, 11728 Riverside, first for crocheted Afghan; Mrs. Vickie Shemwell, 41994 Joy, fourth for bar cookies.

GARDEN CITY winners included Mrs. Joe Ruffalo, 165 Bellon, second for a wedding cake and split four; Mrs. Richard L. Lumberg, 30116 Dawson, third prize for drop cookies and for meringue cookies; Mrs. Gail Margaret Hodge, 28674 Sheridan, third for strawberry jam and fourth for her orange marmalade.

REDFORD TOWNSHIP resident Elaine Marie Bablarz, 8051 Chatham, won first for a knit wear neck scarf and fourth in the hooked rug category.

Michael H. Perry Claims Bride

Patricia Sue Kuske became the bride of Michael Howard Perry of Farmington in an afternoon ceremony Aug. 16 in St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Rochester, Mich.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Kuske of Warren, Pa., and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Perry of Schulte Drive, Farmington.

Officiating for the double ring ceremony were the Rev. J. Douglas Parker and the Rev. George Duffy.

THE BRIDE wore a white silk organza A-line gown with high wedding band collar and bishop sleeves. Venice lace, backed with pink ribbon trimmed the entire gown and a pink satin waistline. Her chapel length train was also trimmed with the lace and pink ribbon. Matching lace headpiece secured the silk illusion bubble veil. White tea roses and Stephanotis made up the bouquet.

The bride's attendants wore watermelon pink petticoat A-line sleeveless floor length skimmers. White Venice lace trimmed the high necklines and fronts of the dresses and they wore Dior bows in watermelon pink for headpieces.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Mrs. Leslie Posey of Rochester, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were two other sisters, Jacqueline and Jennifer Kuske of Warren, Jan Schneck, also of Warren, and Mrs. Michael Roger of Ortonville, Mich.

Kris Taylor of East Lansing was best man and the ushers are David Klinginger and Timothy Patrick of Farmington, and the bridegroom's fraternity brothers, James Brand of East Lansing and Thomas Myers of Lake Forest, Ill.

Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills was the scene of the reception for some 200 guests. A honeymoon in Bermuda was planned.

MRS. MICHAEL H. PERRY (Patricia Kuske)

MRS. WADE E. SCHULTHEISS (Judith Ann Neigh)

Schultheiss-Neigh Rites In Allen Park

The chapel of Allen Park United Presbyterian Church was the scene of the wedding of Judith Ann Neigh of Scarsdale, N. Y. and Wade Earl Schultheiss of Birmingham, on Aug. 16.

The bride is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Neigh of Scarsdale. She was given in marriage by her father, who is the general secretary of the United Presbyterian board of national missions and the founding pastor of the Allen Park church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carl Schultheiss of Plymouth and the late Mr. Schultheiss.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Ramage, Jr., of New York, a friend of the bride's family.

THE BRIDE wore a street length white crepe gown with long sleeves and open pill box cap with a single layer finger-tip veil.

Mrs. James S. Ross of Union Lake was matron of honor and James Meyers of Plymouth was best man. Ushers were Kenneth Neigh of Scarsdale, brother of the bride and James S. Ross of Union Lake.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the Detroit Boat Club. The couple will live in Troy following a two-week wedding trip in the Northwest.

ON LEAVE from the Center for Community Change, a non-profit private agency in Washington, D. D., the bride will teach in Royal Oak where she previously taught English at Kimball High School for three years. Her husband is Kimball's athletic coach and also teaches mathematics and physics there.

The bride is a graduate of Alma College and the bridegroom is a graduate of Michigan State University.
