Traying?

Farmington Hills resident Mike Kirk, a freshman majoring in electrical engineering at Michigan Technological University, demonstrates the latest Northern sport—traying. Copper country hills and 223 inches of snow is the incentive for sledding on cafeteria trays, the cheapest way to travel and a light burden on the way back up the hill.

Fydrich stumps for Jelly Week

Detroit Tiger's pitcher Mark "The Bird" Fydrich will be leading the Michigan Jaycees annual "Jelly Week" fund-raising venture, scheduled from March 27 to April 9.

Farmington Jaycees will be selling the $1 glass mugs filled with jelly from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. March 26 at the A&P store in downtown Farmington and at the Kroger and K-Mart Center at Grand River and Halstead.

A goal of 200,000 mugs sold is what the Jaycees are aiming for as they knock on doors and sell the mugs in shopping centers. Proceeds will be used to help handicapped and disadvantaged children in the state.

For the past four years, Michigan Jaycees have raised more than $857,000 from the program. For further information or to make a donation, contact Farmington Jaycee Chairman Randy Stevens at 474-8400 or Public Relations Chairman Dave Clappison at 474-3511.

CB clinic set for Shiawassee

The Farmington Area Recreation Commission (FARC) will sponsor a Citizen Band Radio Clinic at 8 p.m. March 22 in Shiawassee Elementary School, 30415 Shiawassee Road in Farmington Hills.

The workshop is offered to everyone ages 13 and older, and will feature such guest speakers as Mrs. Nila Piltz, vice-president of the Helping Hands Club, and Farmington police officers Chuck Lee and Larry Eickoff.

Topics to be discussed include proper usage, licensing, FCC regulations, how to buy the proper unit, and public service.
