Bridge the generation gap.
Read "Between Parent & Teenager" beginning Sunday in the Free Press

"My father is a natural-born improviser... his corrections are latched in my memory with needles of hate."

"I'm sorry son. It's your hair—but it's my guts. I can stand it after breakfast, but not before. So, why don't you have breakfast in your room?"

Not every youth has taken to long hair and granny glasses. But scarcely a home in the nation is untouched by the wounds of the parent-teenager struggle. The bitterness, the widening alienation is more of a problem today than ever before.

Dr. Haim Ginott, out of his many years of experience working with parents and teenagers, has written a new, easy-to-read — often humorous — book that will help you to bridge the widening generation gap.

"Between Parent & Teenager" promises to be an even bigger hit than his last classic, "Between Parent & Child," for months a run-away best-seller. Beginning Sunday, Sept. 7, you'll be able to read the first of 12 lively intimate, close-to-home—but above all, helpful—excerpts from this important new book exclusively in the Free Press. It's must reading for every parent who has teenager problems... and for every teenager who has parent problems.

COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION

MAN ON THE MOVE

James P. Thomas Jr., Division Manager, Consumers Power West Wayne Division

The Consumers Power division manager has a big area to serve. But some of the ways in which he serves it may surprise you. Yes, he manages office operations. Supervises the people who perform their various jobs. Keeps a tight rein on expenses. Troubleshoots in emergencies.

It's an eight-hour day, plus. Plus college foundation and Junior Achievement; plus YMCA and Community Fund; Chamber of Commerce, centennial committee... plus urban problems and rural problems. Study committees, civic projects, advisory groups — all have a claim on this man's time.

The division manager is on the move, participating in community affairs representing Consumers Power as a good citizen and neighbor. His example is followed by many other Consumers Power people, too. Besides working at their jobs, they work in their communities to help make them better places in which to live.

It's all part of the high standards of service that Consumers Power sets for its people. Plus the recognition of an old truth: what's good for the community is good for the businesses in it.
