SAWS AND TOOLS

If You Can't Get Coal— Burn Wood

Coal will be scarce this winter—and hard to get. Thousands will turn to wood for fuel. If you're a fore-handed man, invest now in a Disston Cross Cut Saw and a Disston Buck Saw for treedling and cutting into stove lengths. Disston Saws can't be beaten for quality. They're made right—from saw steel of our own manufacture. There's nothing "just like it." Disston Cross Cut and Buck Saws cut up the trees and the wood pile. Look for the Disston Trade Mark on the saw you buy. It means long life, and workmanship at its best. Disston hand-saws are used by three out of every four carpenters in the United States. Disston Saws and Tools are sold by progressive hardware dealers the world over.
