Two U. S. Presidents

gave valuable advice that every youth of the nation should study.

Said President James A. Garfield:

"Things don't turn up in this world until somebody turns them up. Experience teaches that it is the men and women who pay attention to small savings that become wealthy. By saving nickels and dimes a thrifty person lays the foundation of a fortune."

Said President William McKinley:

"The little savings bank in the home means more for the future of the children of a family, almost, than all of the advice in the world. It gives them the right start."
