Among all classes of 10x glock a similar condition exists. Proper-breeding of beef animals remains in better and more uniform stock, having a greater percentage of destrable cuts of meat and a smaller quantity of tione, offal, and incellibe parts. Likewise in swine, sheep, goats and poultry production, the kind of parent stock largely determines the quality and market value of the products. The crusade of improvement now to be undertaken is the outgrowth of investigations in many countries, and a close study of genetics, of live stock, observations in many countries, and a close study of public opinion. In most live stock regions of the world a gradual evolution toward better live stock has been taking place place for centuries. The rapidity of these changes has an important bearing on world commerce and on the properties of the nations. and on the prosperity of the nations in which improvement has been great-

st. Individual and community efforts in many cases have resulted in marked live stock progress in small areas. The islands of Jersey and Guernsey are familiar examples of this kind of ne-

Islands of Jersey and Guernsey are familiar examples of this kind of necomplishment, but no large country so far has endeavored in an organized way to improve all its live stock simultaneously.

Live Stock Men Equal to Task.
Officials of the bureau of animal industry and others who have considered the problem from every angle are convinced that it is possible to hasten the natural course of live stock evolution with benefit to the niktion. They are confident also that the live stock men of the country are eager to undertake the task.

The means of accomplishing most of the improvement, which affects, about 200,000,000 head of live stock, resides poultry, will be through wider distribution and increased use of pure-ored sires and dams.

Once the use of purebred sires becomes general throughout the country, the process of grading up will be appld. Many experiments and also practical experience, when good sires it we used, show that within three gen

Response to Will of People.

For several months the department has been making an analysis of live stock sentiment as expressed in the farm press and in correspondence received in its various offices. Of all the topics discussed the need for a better quality of domestic animals has been pre-eminent.

To make the erusade against scrub live stock most effective the department velcomes constructive ideas and suggestions from all sources. The John College of the stock are to be included in the chappalar asses, swine, stock are to be included in the chappalar asses, swine, stop, poats, and soultry stock are to be included in the chappalar asses, swine, stop, poats, and soultry stock are to the top the stock and the stock are to the top the stock and the support of those who, through lack of inferest or opposition, fall to take their part in the crusade against scrub live stock its one of the problems to be met.

The cost of desirable purched sires is another important factor which has long been an obstacle to live stock improvement. Co-operative ownership divides the expense considerably, and the increased value of the young stock raised also helps to overcome that objection. In addition the campaign is expected to stimulate a greater production of purched breeding stock of good quality.
