

NOW RAISES 600 CHICKENS

After Being Relieved of Organic Trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oregon, Ill.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for organic trouble which pulled me down until I could scarcely do my work, and as I live here in a small town and raise six hundred chickens every year I made it very hard on me."

ASTHMA DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA REMEDY

INSPIRATION AT ODD TIMES How Longfellow Wrote "Wreck of the Hesperus"—Resists Composed Music in Bed.

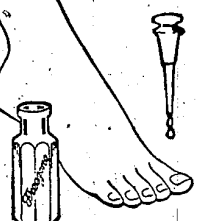

Longfellow's "Wreck of the Hesperus" came to him as he was sitting by his fireplace, the night after a violent storm. He went to bed, but could not sleep; the Hesperus would not be denied; and as he lay the verses flowed on without let or hindrance until the poem was completed.

One at least of Rossetti's splendid pieces of music was composed in bed. It was when he was young, poor and unknown, and lived in wretched quarters. After writing a duet the composer allowed his manuscripts to slip off the sheets and fall under the bed, and moreover he believed it would be un lucky to pick the sheets up; so he went to work to rewrite the duet. To his disgust he could not remember it. It was therefore necessary to write a new one. This he had finished when a friend entered.

"Try that," said the composer, "and tell me what you think of it." The verdict was favorable. "Now," said Rossetti, "look under the bed. You'll find another duet there. Try that, too."

AIMING ABOUT LONG ENOUGH. Old Gentleman Evidently Thought Prospective Son-in-Law Should Be Getting Ready to Fire.

John Bewine was the most bashful lad in a Wessex village. For three years he had been keeping company with Lottie Field, but he could not bring his courage up to the popping point. On Sunday night, as he was leaving the garden gate of his parents, he encountered the old man, who had begun to chafe under the diffidence of his daughter's sweet-heart.

"Look-ee here, John!" exclaimed the old man; "you have been coming to see my daughter for several years now, and I want to know what your intentions are."

The Cult of Fashion. Young lady at the theater to friend: "What do you think of this play my dear?" "Why, it's absurd! Three months are supposed to pass between the first and second acts, and the heroine's still got the same hat on!"

PAT EVIDENTLY MADE GOOD

News From A Irishman. He Seemed to Prove He Was Not Misjudged in His Capacity.

Pat Finnegan had left his wife in Ireland and came to America to try his fortune or to establish a home for his family in the new world. It was some two or three weeks after Pat's departure that his wife stood in the meager garden in front of her house, looking down the road her man had gone, and moodily speculating on his success. She was rudely startled by the harsh voice of Mr. O'Leary calling him over the fence.

USE TACTICS OF QUAIL

How Villa and His Men Fought Pursuit.

Bandits Scatter and Hide as Federal Appearance—Brown Uniforms Give Relief. Juarez, Mex.—Francisco Villa's method of evading pursuit by Mexican government troops is almost identical with that used by the coyote of quail to escape the hunter. Even the detail of protective coloring has been applied by Villa, for his men always wear "brown cotton" clothing which blends with the desert landscape and dust clouds through which they travel in campaign.

Hunters know that the quail's instinct directs it to scatter when danger approaches and seek cover in the near-by landscape. Villa and his bandits do the same thing when a superior federal column approaches.

FINDS CURE FOR POISON IVY. New Jersey Rector's Wife Says Catnip Leaves Rubbed on Will Give Relief.

New York—Mrs. Evelyn S. Trenbath, wife of Rev. Robert W. Trenbath, rector of St. James' Episcopal church of Montclair, N. J., has conferred a boon on sufferers from poison ivy by announcing a remedy which those who have tried it say is most efficacious. It is simply the green leaves of common catnip rubbed on the affected parts until the juice runs.

Fishes in His Sleep. Watertown, N. Y.—Donald F. Whipple thinks so much of fishing that he must do it while asleep. He had such great luck fishing for trout at Sandy Pond that he refused to quit when "lights out" was sounded. He went to bed, tied a line with a well baited hook on it around his big toe and ermal scouts appeared. They have learned various tricks of deception during the years of evading the federal, and even drive a herd of burros with them so they may transform themselves into wood vendors on occasion.

CAPT. KIDD'S SPOOK SWINDLE. Pirate's Ghost Induces "Suckers" to Purchase Farm—Found No Treasure.

Trenton, N. J.—Capt. Kidd's spirit is not a reliable witness as to where the redoubtable pirate buried his treasure. In the opinion of Sophie Sauter and Marie Blum of Philadelphia, and Fred Leuchers of Elizabeth, who appealed to the supreme court against both the spook and his alleged sponsor, Daniel Bastingar of Oakland, N. J., the three took a chance and bought a farm from Bastingar in May, 1913, on the strength of his assurance that Capt. Kidd's spirit had appeared to him in the night and revealed the exact spot on the farm where he had buried whole chests of pieces of eight. They do not wish to pay the balance due now because they have dug up the entire farm without finding a single doubloon.

German Girls Blacklisted. Pilloried in Church if They Associate With American Soldiers.

With the American forces in Germany—Posters warning German girls against associating with Americans appear recently in Coblenz and other towns on the Rhine. American officers who have investigated say certain Germans are re-soldiered that girls who associate with the American soldiers shall be punished and that secret societies have been formed for this purpose.

On several occasions the names of girls who associate with Americans have been read to the congregations at Sunday morning church services. In other cities the practice is to post the girls' names in public places. Blacklists of the girls' names are being kept for use after the Americans are gone.
