Designers aim to please family

For design consultants Gluseppe Capato and Alvaro Mendez the name "Wabeket" has meant collective dreams come true.

For it is here in this posh cluster of condominiums that the two designers were commissioned to conceive and condominiums that the two designers were commissioned to conceive and the continuation of the condominium. The only contingency was time. The only contingency was time. They were asked to have it ready by Christmas for owners, the Charles T. Beugmanns, who live in England nine months of the year. Caputo and Mendez accomplished what most in this business might have thought impossible—completion within 10 weeks. This involved hours of planning and workmen traffic that streeted into most nights. Part of the recompense expressed by other less as a second home.

"'THE MOST DIFFICULT PART." said Mendez, "was designing for clients we had never met."
Instead of guessing what might reflect the interests of the couple, Caputo and Mendez decided to build sweep that's subtle enough to create an ambiance of warmth. For "texture and interest" will covering was used on all four levels. From grainy plain in the living area to exotic floral, grass cloth or pebble-like, all paper selected provides dractices of the content of the con and sewn together by carpet craftsmen.

More continuity is indicated in over-all window treatment. A new look on the decor scene is the use of vertical drapes, which here cover every window and window wall in the condiminium. Matched in color, fabric or wallpaper to the adjacent wall, the verticals when closed promote a screen, unbroken look. When open, they allow a panoramic view of a lake and golf course.

ALL BATHS AND POWDER ROOMS are glossy, luxurious and reflective. Each is foil covered, including the inside of each door—a trick that makes for harmony. Especially exciting is the master bath, a walk-in mirrored room for dressing with a stationary wash basin unit, sauna, recessed tub and every conceivable accouterment for personal care. It is the ultimate in this particular world of gracious living.

THE MAIN LEVEL has an open floating look that's sharply punctuated by an ebony grand plano in the living room and an elaborately scrolled glass topped dining set, also in inky black. Burnt orange velvet chair covers add pungent color relief. Travertine a marble look-alike, covers the entry floor, the cantileavered space around the fireplace, the bearth, a jumbo square coffee table and several accessories.

All art work is a happy amalgam of paintings and pieces such as a dipped metal Chi-nese wall hanging, a hand blocked panel set from China and a crystal chandeller whose fittings are nin-stature ebony and brass ladies, a kitchen that doesn't look kitcheny. A blend of peach, taupe and camel composed with cleverly camoflage compacat work spaces. This part of the house is not for hig-ering. It's strictly get-in. get-out, but-salong.as-you-have-to-be-her-enjoy-it. At one end is a breakfast bar, low-enough so that nearby dning chairs can be doubly utilized.

with restrained elegance. The guest room is an earth brown and burgundy mix and the master suite is a peachy glow all about. Lower levels feature an activities nom, game area and master den, as well as a third bedroom done up brightly in yellow. Curious blends of rough sawn cedar paneling, a natural stone fireplace and textured pebble-like wall covering create boldness. Big comfort is the dominating idea hereabouts.

Furnishings in every room are unquestionably Oriental. Lacquer, brass and exotically delicate designs such as the glass dragon panels in the entry remove all doubt as to decor fla-

It reflects the spirit of gracious living so thoroughly compatible with this type of complex. It is splendid to behold, a credit to Caputo and Mendez who second-guessed so well that they came up with Oriental
