

Awkward introduction

Ann (Elaine Bojke) hides behind a towel during introduction to Peter (John Butte) by Trina (Melissa Fial) in the Troy Players production of "Forty Carats." The comedy will be performed at 8 p.m. May 12-13 and 19-20 at Smith Middle School. The plot revolves around the love life of a 40-year-old divorced woman, the problems of her 17-year-old daughter, and an unlikely twist on the situation created by the generation gap. (Staff photo by Charlie Kidd)

Lecture slated on bard

C. Walter Hodges, internationally famous authority on Elizabethan theaters, will give an illustrated lecture "Shakespeare's Playhouses," at Wayne State University's Hillberry Theatre at 2:30 p.m. May 19.

The lecture is sponsored by the Department of English and the Department of Speech Communication, Theatre and Journalism. Hodges is a British, artist, writer and specialist on Shakespearean theater. He is the author of "The Globe Restored," a self-illustrated reconstruction of Shakespeare's theater.

His other writings, self-illustrated and designed for young people, include "Columbus Sails," "Shakespeare and the Players," "Shakespeare's Theatre," "Magna Carta," "The Norman Conquest" and "The Spanish Armada."

He also has illustrated numerous other works, including G. B. Harrison's "New Tales from Shakespeare" and "More New Tales from Shakespeare," Johann Wysz's "Swiss Family Robinson," Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer," and Dumas' "The Three Musketeers."

As an artist, he also has done mural paintings in London, stage and costume designs for the Everyman Theatre and the Mermaid Theatre in London and magazine and advertising illustrations.
