

Underground workers make the connections

In the throes of the fierce Michigan winter, months ago, workmen for Bell Telephone braved the elements to make installations that would ease the work of installing underground telephone cables when the weather allowed. Their below-the-ground labors were the preliminaries necessary to seeing that people get their new telephones. In the top photo, Dominic Cicchini takes a look at what's going on underneath it all, while Frank Dogan working some 20 feet below the surface handles the new telephone cables. While their work never is easy, they agree it's better in balmy June than in the winter months. (Staff photos by Gary Friedman)

New appointment announced by JNF

Daniel Rosenbaum, son of Rabbi and Mrs. Milton Rosenbaum, has assumed the position of assistant director of the Jewish National Fund, greater Detroit and Michigan region. Mark Schlusel, JNF president, said Rosenbaum will assist Pevey Kaplan, JNF executive director.

Rosenbaum is a native Texan who has been in this area since 1956. He earned a BA in history and Judaic studies from the University of Michigan and studied at the Hebrew Union College in Jerusalem and Cincinnati. Before coming to the JNF, Rosenbaum was co-founder of MAKOM-the Chicago Jewish Experience, an experimental synagogue in Chicago. He participated in organizational and musical activities there and was program director of the Rockford, Ill., Jewish Center. He has been active in many community organizations.

In another announcement, Schlusel said the JNF will plant a tree in Israel in honor of each of the graduates, confirmants and consecrants of all Hebrew schools, day schools and synagogue and temple schools.

This custom of honoring young students was inaugurated more than 20 years ago.
