Westland John Glenn fired away from North Farmington during the fourth quarter Friday and reaped a 52-40 basekellal victory in a Northwest Suburban League showdown.

The host Rockels totalled 18 points during the final eight minutes to North's eight.

"North Farmington played very deliberate, but everyone seems to play that way against us," said Glenn coach Gordon Davis.

"Our kids played exceptionally well in the fourth quarter. They played with a lot of determination, particularly on the boards. They were just giving them (Raiders) one shot," said Davis.

Ralph McRenzie entted 15 points for the Rockets, Tony Colucci 12 and Daran Armstrong 11. Eight of Colucci's points came during the crucial fourth period.

Brian Bowditch scored 15 points for North and Mike Howley contributed 12. McKenzie grabbed 15 rebounds and Armstrong had five assists.

The Raiders triumphed in the JV game, 71-61.

3 Raiders miss game

Schoolcraft tops OCC

By C.J. RISAK

A basketball team that is forced tr blay a big game without one of its key players is handicapped.

But Oakland Community College probably would have preferred that predicament over theo ne it faced in its game against Schoolcraft College Wednesday. The Raiders were without three of their starters.

Despite the crippling loss of forwards Dave Milburn and Ossle Cobb and guard Walker Russell, OCC managed to keep the score close, losing 78-71. The win moved Schoolcraft into first place in the eastern conference with a 10-2 league record and dropped the Raiders out of a first place tie as they fell to 8-3.

Strangely enough, only Cobb was forced out of the lineup with an injury. Milburn got his directions mixed up and ended up at OCS Highland Lakes compute the start of the control of the lineup with an injury. Russell was a different story. He was suspended earlier in the week for "disciplinary reasons" by Raider coach Tom McPhillips. He was expected to be cientated for the team's game against Delta Community College Saturday. But the loss of those they players doomed OCC. Russell is the team's commend OCC. rom his teammates.

Swingman Anthony Barnard, third leading score on the team with a 13.4 average and a 54 per cent shooter, had a terrible night, hitting just live of 18 floor attempts and scoring only 10 points. Darryi Herring and Johany Keel pumped in 12 point each, but the Ralders were unable to stay with Schoolcraft.

The Ocelois led the entire game. The closest OCC came was 18-17 with 11 minutes left in the first hall. The Raiders fell behind, 44-32, early in the second half before rallying to pull within five, 48-43, with 13 minutes remaining. OCC's lack of board strength was evident, as Schoolcraft outrebounded the Raiders, 38-24. The Ocelois outshot OCC, litting 46 per cent to the Raiders. 36-26.

36. Four players scored in double figures for Schoolcraft, led by Dennis Watley's 25 points. Bob McLaurin hit for 16, and Hoy Monk and Eric Watson each added 12.

OCC entertains St. Clair Community College on Wednesday.
