Where credit belongs

Planning for the annual Plymouth Fall Festival is a year-round activity conducted in a very business-like manner.

The Festival is by a Board of Directors who hire a fulltime manager and assistant manager to take care of administrative responsibilities.

Carl Glass, of Montfort Street, Plymouth, is the manager of the Fall Festival and the assistant manager is Mike Vanderveen. Another paid person on the Fall Festival staff is Nancy Hayes who handles publicity and promotion.

Roos South of Winding, Plymouth, is the president of the Fall Festival Board this year.

Serving as second vice-president of the board is Fred Eisehorst of the Lions Club of Plymouth and the board treasurer's spot is held by Tim Yoe, CPA in town and a member of the Kiwanis Club.

The first vice-president is Eugene Katla, also a Kiwanian, who in past years has served as board treasurer. Hazel Gibson of Plymouth Book World serves as secretary with Richard Raiton as immediate past president.

Assisting these officers on a year-round basis are members of the board, including Robert Richardson, a past board president, Tom Wortman, Allen Elementary principal, Jane Turner, Harold Gombert, Eleanor Shevlin, Catherine Kostreba.

This year, two members of the board moved away from Plymouth before Fall Festival's arrival and were unable to see the fruits of their many months' labor.

Mrs. Turner, wife of former Plymouth mayor Tom Turner, left the first part of September for Venezuela where her husband has assumed responsibility as president and general manager of Ford of Venezuela.

Richardson, husband of former Plymouth Township Clerk Helen Richardson, has moved to a year-round home up north where the Richardsons will spend their retirement years.
