

Bring on the batiks

Primitive batik patterns and colors on parchment by Fred Cole are some of the newest wall coverings. Inspired by one of the oldest arts, these designs are dramatic and bold, but the colors are soft as though they had been done with vegetable dyes by tribesmen from Africa of the South Sea Islands. Each pattern includes a variety of designs to make it look individual. The wooden carved fish seemed a natural to complement with the parchment sample. Wall coverings are available at Thybony Wall Covering. The fish is from Norman Lacooff. Both studios are in the Design Center, Troy, open to members of the interior design and home furnishings fields. (Staff photo by Dick Kelley)
