

Be an angel: Help troubled kids

Christmas angels designed by youngsters from four metro Detroit centers for emotionally disturbed children have turned up on a variety of items sold by Crowley's.

Lafayette Clinic in Detroit and York Woods Center in Ypsilanti. "Be an angel, buy an angel" is the slogan of this fundraising effort which is being carried out by both Crowley's and the Mental Health Association of Michigan.

This and a variety of other angels designed by emotionally handicapped children have been imprinted on a number of items sold by Crowley's to aid the Mental Health Association.

SPACE will hear talk about trauma

The Rev. Bob Weikart, pastoral counselor ethicist with the Department of Family Medicine at the University of Michigan Medical School, will speak on "The Total Person" at 8 p.m. Dec. 13. The event will take place in the offices of the National Council of Jewish Women, 16400 12 Mile, Southfield.

The discussion has been arranged by the widowed program committee of SPACE, a service for widowed and divorced men and women and their families. Weikart, who specializes in holistic health, will look at "the five parts of the person" and explain how they are affected by trauma. He will discuss how one can learn to cope with it.

This group provides men in transition the opportunity to explore male issues, concerns and values in a supportive atmosphere. The second in a series of three workshops for divorced parents will be given Dec. 11. The program, "Listening for Understanding," offers custodial and non-custodial parents a chance to deal with their own thoughts and feelings and also move to a new level of understanding.

On Dec. 12, SPACE will sponsor its weekly drop-in rap session for widowed and divorced women and men. A trained facilitator will be on hand to guide the discussion. All programming will take place at 8 p.m. at the offices of the NCJW. There are nominal charges for all events. For further information about SPACE call Aida Cutler, 557-9604, between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays.

Greenfield Village is trip objective

A trip to Greenfield Village to enjoy an old-fashioned holiday is being planned by The Community House of Birmingham.

On Dec. 17, participants will board a specially chartered bus at the Community House, taking the group to the Henry Ford Museum at Greenfield Village in time for the Christmas luncheon. Luncheon will be served in Heritage Hall at the museum, where elegant examples of period Christmas decorations will be on view.

Following luncheon, arrangements have been made for a special wreath-making demonstration, with the finished wreaths given to lucky persons in the group.

The museum, aglow with holiday decorations, will also have its popular "Crafts at Christmas" demonstrations for the group to watch. Along the museum's street of early American shops, craftsmen will demonstrate doll making, quilting, cookie and candle making, glass blowing, broom and toy making, wood-working and much more. The museum shop will also be open for those who wish to buy holiday gifts of handcrafted items, fine books, toys and museum reproductions.

Reservations are necessary for the Christmas event at Greenfield Village and are being accepted at The Community House, Bates and Townsend in Birmingham. Ticket price includes luncheon, round-trip transportation and admission fee to the museum. Cost is $18 per person. For further information call The Community House, 644-5832.
