Upshaw paces Hawks

Reggie Upshaw came off the bench to score 23 points and lead Farmington Harrison to a 57-54 win over North Farmington Friday at North.
Neither team had more than a three-point lead after the first quarter. With the sess than three minutes left in the contest, North's Rex Baker banked in a short shot off a rebound to give the Railbers as 57-51 leading, as D. J. Hoch-stein numed in a short jumper to had

Hey Santa, take note

Harrison's Reggie Upshaw (13) scored 23 points and pulled down 13

Geez, it hardly seems like another year has passed, huh Santa ol' boy? But it has, so get ready, my Christmas list so nits way.
You may notice that this isn't as long as last year's list. The reason for the cutback was simple; two typed pages wouldn't be quite as overwhelming as last year's lePage transcript. Did you notice, Santa? After 20 years of sending lists to you, there's been a change in me. I mean, I actually cut down on my list so that it wouldn't be so tresome for you. What the heek, I figured here are other people in the world you have to take care of, too.

are other people in the second of too.

Also, this year I included with my list some requests for other people. I've had occasion to work with these folks for the past couple of years and some need help more than others, Santa. But I'll leave it to your judgment as to who deserves what.

LARRY BAKER, Our Lady of Mercy basketball coach — Perhaps some less exciting basketball for this guy, Santa. He's still pretty young, but the gray hairs can't be far off, the way his teams keep get-ting involved in those thrillers.

STEVE EMERT, new Walled Lake Central boya' basketball coach — More exciting basketball. That's what he needs. He's taking over a Central team that was 1:20 last year, and he could use the help. It doesn't have to be wins, just make them exciting losses.

DEBBY WOCHNA, North Farmington girls' basketball coach — A win, plain and simple. For the second straight year, North's girls falled to win a game. The closest they came was about 30 points.

RICH ROY, Farmington boys' basketball ceach — How about Tim Andree? He would have gone to Farmington four years ago, but instead he opted for Birmingham Brother Rice. A player of his caliber comes around once in a lifetime, and was robbed of his chance to coach him.

JOHN HERRINGTON, Farmington Harrison football coach — Two points. That's all he would have needed to have an undefeated season this year and go to the state playoffs.

GEORGE HOUTTEKIER, North Farmington football star — George really doesn't need to much, Santa. Every newspaper in the Detroit area named him to their All-State team — every paper but ours. For some reason, the coaches voted him to the second squad. Explain it to his dad, will ya, Santa?

RON HOLLAND, North Farmington football coach—Another decade like the one that's about teapire. Ron didn't do too badly in this one. State champs in 1970, state runners-up in '78 and always in the Northwest Suburban League title hunt be one of the order to the order of the West Suburban League title hunt for two different sports, and in the same year—football and track in 1978.

HAL BEARDSLEY, Farmington football coach — Something different in the next decade. Hal took Farmington to its first Inter Lakes League champlosship in 17 years in 1975, but in the last two seasons his teams have won only three games.
