

58% BETTER ESTIMATED GAS MILEAGE IN THE MOST BEAUTIFULLY STYLED GRAND LE MANS SAFARI EVER!

Handsome Grand Prix-style cockpit.

It's good news that Pontiac's mid-size Grand Le Mans Safari's EPA-estimated MPG is 58% better than just a few years ago. 45 in City. That's comparing '78 and '79 Grand Le Mans Safari's with base power windows. Highway percentage increase less than 10%. It's even better news when you see the

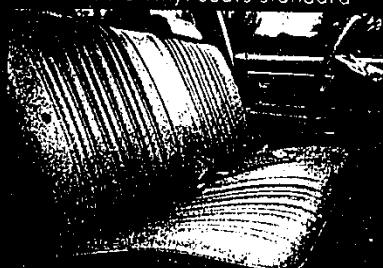

19 25

EPA ESTIMATE MPG HWY ESTIMATE

that improvement results in these impressive mileage estimates.

Remember, compare the EPA-estimated MPG with that of other cars. Your mileage may vary, depending on speed, traffic, engine and weather. And you can't ignore wind mileage will drop as much as 10% below the highway estimate. Wind speed over 15 mph can drop it even more.

Comfortable vinyl seats standard.

But when you can get that improved mileage in city and highway, it's a good news. In a word, it's a good news.

Maybe more why look for our Sports Illustrated Magazine's Snapshot of the year picked the 1979 Grand Le Mans Safari as the car of the year.

Two-way tailgate opens to 72.4 cu. ft. of cargo space with rear seat down.

It's good news that Pontiac's mid-size Grand Le Mans Safari's EPA-estimated MPG is 58% better than just a few years ago. 45 in City. That's comparing '78 and '79 Grand Le Mans Safari's with base power windows. Highway percentage increase less than 10%. It's even better news when you see the that improvement results in these impressive mileage estimates. Remember, compare the EPA-estimated MPG with that of other cars. Your mileage may vary, depending on speed, traffic, engine and weather. And you can't ignore wind mileage will drop as much as 10% below the highway estimate. Wind speed over 15 mph can drop it even more. But when you can get that improved mileage in city and highway, it's a good news. In a word, it's a good news. Maybe more why look for our Sports Illustrated Magazine's Snapshot of the year picked the 1979 Grand Le Mans Safari as the car of the year.

GM

THE 1979 PONTIACS OUR BEST GET BETTER