Who Should Get Flu Vaccine?

The Michigan Heart Association recommends that patients with heart disease or chronic debilitating conditions, as well as persons over 65 who have chronic disease, should ask their doctors for advice on influenza vaccination.

Dr. Edward W. Green, president of the association, said that while only flurries of influenza are expected this year, there will be enough to offer a threat to persons with weakened resistance.

Shots should be administered now. They are not recommended for healthy adults and children. Plenty of vaccine is available, not only the standard type used last year, but two new kinds which offer the same protection, Type A (Hong Kong) and Type B, but have less side effects and reaction because they have less egg in them. Dr. Green is director of cardiology, Children's Hospital in Detroit. The Heart Association is a Michigan United Fund agency.

The U.S. Surgeon General's report recommends the following for vaccination:

- Rheumatic heart disease, especially mitral stenosis (a narrowing of the valve opening).
- Coronary heart disease and high blood pressure, particularly with evidence of inability of the heart to function properly.
- Asthma, chronic bronchitis, cystic fibrosis, bronchiectasis, pulmonary fibrosis, pulmonary emphysema and advanced pulmonary tuberculosis.
- Diabetes mellitus or Addison disease.

Flu vaccine is usually administered in two doses, about two months apart. However, those vaccinated within the past two years need only one booster dose. Persons possibly allergic to eggs should notify their physician before vaccination.

Women Are This Theme For Series

Front Row Center presents Joyce Feuring and Evelyn Orbach in "The Ages of Women" at 8:30 p.m., Dec. 10 in the Aaron Delroy Theatre of the Jewish Community Center, 18100 Meyers, Detroit.

"The Ages of Women" is a unique combination of theatrical art designed to explore dramatic media while questioning profound and not so profound human relations.

The two actresses, Joyce Feuring and Evelyn Orbach, are veteran performers with excellent training and have been seen in performances throughout the midwestern states as well as the Detroit Metropolitan area.

Coffee and conversation will follow the program to which the public is invited. General admission is 75 cents.

Miss Lusky Cast In Play

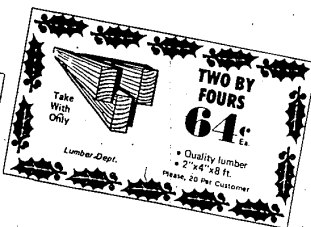

Deborah Lusky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lusky of 32410 Briarcrest Knoll, Farmington, has a role in the experimental production of "The Lottery" at Mount Union College in Alliance, Ohio.

As Miss Besom, she will portray a self-righteous spinster who takes part in the traditional lottery.

Miss Lusky is a senior at Mount and an English major. She has appeared in Mount productions of "Private Life of the Master Race", "The Country Wife", "Women at the Tomb", and "Man and Superman."
