Scripture is in a nutshell. Peter Haley, a scholar of Queen Elizabeth's time, lives in the Harleian Manuscripts at Oxford, for having written the Bible in so small a hand that it was enclosed in a wallet. "The nut holds the book; there are as many leaves in his little book as in the great Bible, and he hath written as many on one of his little leaves as on a great leaf of the Bible."

M'ALISTER ROSE TO MAJOR

Arkansas Officer's Unit Made Record for Number of Men Discharged in One Day.

Heber L. McAllister of Conway, Ark., chairman of the American Legion committee of the Arkansas department of the American Legion, announced himself to many ex-soldiers when he went at Camp Ix, N. Y., discharged more men in one day than any other unit in the army. The score which he commanded is 500 discharges in one day.
A member of the Arkansas National Guard, Mr. McAllister entered the federal service in the war and served in America and France. He rose from second lieutenant to major. Mr. McAllister was educated in the common and high schools of Mississippi and graduated from Mississippi college. He was an assistant in mathematics at his alma mater for one year and then became a member of the faculty of Ouachita college. He was acting professor of the latter institution when he resigned to enter the service. Mr. McAllister is now director of extension at Arkansas State Normal school.

SEARCH FOR BERGDOLL'S AID

Legion is Endeavoring to Find Man Alleged to Have Helped Slacker Reach Germany.

The American Legion is searching for the man who is reported to have aided Grover C. Bergdoll, notorious slacker, in his escape from Canada to Germany, according to Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the Legion, who said that the Legion is especially concerned in that Bergdoll is alleged to have obtained his passport in Winnetka by using an American Legion button and the Army discharge papers of a Legionnaire.
Mr. Bolles has appealed to the Department of Justice to ascertain the facts in the case and if possible, if the report is true, to see that the man is apprehended, expelled from the Legion and kept out of a spy's trial.
Bergdoll has been the target of numerous attacks of the American Legion. When he "escaped" from prison a reward of $500 was offered for his capture and a number of Legion posts in many parts of the country took similar action to bring about his capture. One post adopted resolutions urging the President to demand the release of the two Americans who tried to recover Bergdoll in Germany.

Men of Great Height.

Stories are common among the lower civilized peoples, as well as among savage tribes, to the effect that men have lived who have measured 15 feet in height. Or king of Bushan, is said in Deuteronomy (3:11) to have been the last of the giants. His bedstead of iron was nine cubits, or between 11 and 12 feet in length. Play mentions the name of an Arabian giant who measured 9 1/2 feet, and also speaks of two others who were 10 feet in stature. The following list of men whose real height is well known shows that it is possible for individuals to go far beyond the average height of the human species, which is 65 inches.

Mugrad, bishop Berkeley's giant, six feet two inches; Patrick Clitter (1701-1804), or O'Brien, 99 inches; Charles Byrne, Irish giant, 100 inches; Topinard's Kalinuck, 100 inches; Winkelmator, Austrian (died 1887), 103 inches; Topinard's Finlander, 112 inches.

The Censored Public.

"What kind of a play did you see last night?"
"One of those plays," replied Miss Cayenne, "which we have learned to see without a blush and while it would be considered highly improper to describe minutely in print or conversation."

FOUNDER OF SUNDAY SCHOOL MADE FAMOUS BY THOREAU

Robert Raikes, to Whom Honor is Generally Given, Said to Have Borrowed the Idea.

Robert Raikes of Gloucester is often set down as the founder of the Sunday school, writes an English correspondent, but nothing is heard of Emmanuel Tynning, the shepherd of Maple Bottom, Sheepscombe, Gloucestershire, from whom Raikes got his idea. Maple Bottom is a beautiful crikette at the edge of the Sheepscombe, where the lane departs down the valley, at last reaching Gloucestershire. The young man must have been up here to take a service. At one rate, as he went by Maggie Bottom there was Shepherd Emmanuel Tynning in that thyme-scented little paradise, with a string of children round him, explaining perhaps pastoral parables of the New Testament. Master Bob Raikes stopped, perhaps loathed in a leam and talked to the shepherd, asking him how he "went on" when the weather was not so favorable. He was told that on wet days some handy cottage sheltered the class, and that, come wet or fine, there was a class every Sunday. During the walk back to Gloucester the thought took root and, without the thyme and the marjoram and the inconspicuous chirruping of grasshoppers, Robert took up his shepherdling in the dark streets of the cathedral city.

Beautiful Walden Pond Chiefly Noted as One-Time Home of the Noted Philosopher.
For some two years, and three months Thoreau lived beside Walden pond, and "Walden" is probably the best known and characteristic of his works. At what time did the era of snobbery in nomenclature begin in Massachusetts and turn so many good old ponds into "lakes"? Walden pond was duly made "Lake" Walden. It is about a mile south of Concord and must look as Thoreau used to see it, remarks the New York Times.
The scenery of Walden is on a humble scale, and, although very beautiful, does not approach to grandeur, nor can it much concern one who has not long frequented it or lived by its shore; yet this pond is so remarkable for its depth and purity as to merit a particular description. It is a clear and deep green well, half a mile long and a mile and three-quarters in circumference, and contains about 4 1/2 acres; a perennial spring in the midst of pine and oak woods, without any visible inlet or outlet except by the clouds and evaporation. The surrounding hills rise abruptly from the water to the height of 40 to 50 feet, though on the southeast and east they attain to about 150 feet respectively within a quarter and a third of a mile. They are exclusively woodland.

Great Minds Linked With Geneva.

Geneva and its lake early became the abode of leaders in science and literature. Voltaire, Mme. de Staël, Georges Sand, Dumas, Daudet, Edgar Byron, Gibbon, Dickens, Bush, Frances Havergal, Simonds, De Saussure, Amiel—a veritable parade of illustrious poets, novelists, essayists, philosophers and scientists have linked their names forever with that fair city and its environs.

Cloth Upholstery.

Cloth upholstery may be beat cleaned by beating curtains and backs lightly with a carpet beater after which the accumulated dust is whisked off with a brush. Grease or oil may be removed by an application of lukewarm water and mild soap, applied with a woolen cloth. There are a number of woolen cleansers which will work very well on cloth upholstery, but gasoline and benzine have a tendency to spread instead of to remove dirt.

The Ears in Dreams.

"To dream that your ear is very large denotes riches and prosperity. For a professional man to dream he has ears as big as a carpet beater denotes success and reputation. To lose an ear, loss of a friend. To have it cut off or disfigured, a friend will prove false.
