

Film Provides London Visit

You'll visit the mods of Carnaby Street and an authentic Elizabethan banquet complete with strolling minstrels if you see Howard Pollard's travel film "London Town."

The film will be shown at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 8, in the Schoolcraft College Waterman Center. The campus is located on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia.

contacting the college (591-6400) or purchased at the door. The film moves quickly from the London of the Romans to the modern swinging London of the mods and rockers.

Included are scenes from: London during the days of the Romans; during the 1500s; the great fire of 1666; the years of World War I and today.

PROCEEDS from the $1.50 ticket sale ($1 for students) will help the Schoolcraft College International Club finance scholarships for students to study abroad during the summer.

'007' Turns Camp In 'Her Majesty's'

The head brass of London's Universal Export are looking for 007, while James Bond is among his way through the Portuguese countryside.

Along the beach, he sees a girl (young and beautiful, naturally) trying to commit suicide. Bond rises to the occasion and is attacked for his pains.

007 wins the fight, but the girl escapes.

NEXT SCENE is a gambling casino on the Riviera, and the pair meets again. Once more the girl is attacked, and once more he is attacked.

This time the super-hero was both the fight and the girl.

What's this? Has 007 finally dropped the pretense of being an efficient and loyal employee of Her Majesty's Secret Service and settled down to a steady career of pursuit of the fairer sex?

Just when the dedicated James Bond fan begins to give up hope, 007 brings up the name of the arch-fiend, Ernst Stavro Blofeld.

"ON HER MAJESTY'S SECRET SERVICE" is pure James Bond at its campiest best.

Of course, the story is improbable but that won't really

Gabler Cast Rehearsing

The Meadow Brook Theatre's fourth production of the season "Hedda Gabler," is now in rehearsal for Jan. 15 opening at Oakland University.

Henrik Ibsen's dramatic masterpiece about a woman whose inner thoughts and desires struggle against her existence is a staggering portrait by the "father of modern drama."

Nikol Lambert will play the title role. Others in the cast include William Needles, Toby Tompkins, Marshall Borden, Elisabeth Olson, Bonnie Hurron and Deborah Ardrey.

John Fernald will direct the Meadow Brook production of "Hedda Gabler," which is set to play seven performances at the Detroit Institute of Arts beginning Wednesday, Feb. 4.

Tickets for Hedda Gabler may be purchased at Hudson's and the Meadow Brook Theatre Box Office.

BOTH YOUNG and old will find the Village production a delight.

Director Joseph French has come up with fast paced entertainment including just the right mixture of fun, farce and intrigue to keep the youngsters enchanted.

The acting is of a high enough caliber to keep the parents interested.

Accolades for their performances are due to Kenneth Chomont (Rumpelstiltskin); Louise DeVito (Nanny); and Irene Sawyer (Nell). Good performances came from Mary Hirsch (Belle); Karen Anderson (Mother Goose); Stan Gill (King Dell).

A special note should be made of the expert dancing of Jean Strangquist (The Silver Carriage).

This is the type of polished production that is a good vehicle for introducing the youngsters to the legitimate theater.
