YOU'RE RIGHT BROTHER.

Editor E. H. Goodrich of the Greenville Independent, is opposed to Governor Groesbeck because the chief executive of the commonwealth found it convenient to be out of Lansing the day Vice-President Coolidge dropped into the capital with Congressman Kelley for the "back chamber banquet." The Greenville scribe thinks this alleged social blunder was a scrippis political faux pas. But let him tell it:

"The other day a good friend of ours asked us to sign a petition for the nomination of Governor A. J. Groesbeck to succeed himself as Michigan executive. Now we hated to refuse our friend and we disliked very much starting an argument, but in this particular instance we felt that we would much prefer to see what future developments are in Michigan politics before committing ourselves.

"While Governor Groesbeck has done some commendable things while in the executive chair, he has failed in some respects to measure up to the position he occupies. The most recent 'fall from grace' politically, occurred a few weeks ago when the vice-president of the United States visited Lansing for the first time. The state executive not only refused to be present at the banquet given in honor of the second man of the country, but even failed to meet Vice-President Coolidge when he arrived, being 'conveniently' out-of-town.

"The reason given for this failure to put in an appearance has been given by friends of the governor as the latter's desire to keep out of the senatorial fight in Michigan, and the fact that 'Pat' Kelley was to make his maiden campaign speech at the banquet, while the vice-president was the guest of honor.

"With all due respects to the governor's desire to refrain from taking a hand in the senatorial campaign, his action was, to say the least, a sad home made blunder. Had he met the vice-president at the train and given him some sort of a reception, without appearing at the banquet, he would at the same time have held to his campaign attitude and have honored the representative of the federal government. For one who is in politics the action of the governor in absconding himself during the visit of the vice-president, shows the former, in our estimation, as having 'cooked his own political goose.' We may rest assured that in case the state executive heads his ticket in Michigan this fall, there will be many, on both the Republican and Democratic benches who will not forget.

"We do not expect everyone to believe as we do in this case, nor do we ask anyone to agree with us. However, if we are going to put men into office it behooves us to get at it early and see that the men we want are in the field before the primaries—men who will not forget the common courtesies due to the favorites of the general government, which should come before personal desires, we believe."

Bro. Goodrich is right. Whenever a supposed-to-be governor of the state of any state, and Michigan especially, considers he is so ever-lastingly big that he can snub the vice-president, the representative of the executive branch of the federal government, and get the approval of the people of the state he is deserving of a rebuke at the polls.

Oh yes! When one stops to consider, it must have been annoying to the High and Mighty Dictator to be halted by a mere member of the state police.

WE AGREE WITH THE REVIEW

It is rather amusing to read some of the editorials in the administration paper in Michigan on the proposition of "taking the public schools out of politics" by appointing a commission to appoint a superintendent of public instruction in place of electing a man to that position as under the present constitution. In the opinion of the writer it would be putting the schools in politics instead of taking them out. Under the laws enacted by the last legislature the governor is about all there is to the present state government and it would seem that the voters of the state were yet capable of electing the state superintendent of schools. The politicians have not very much use for the voters at present, but the voters will do well to stand sturdily by what few privileges they yet possess and not surrender this important office to the politicians.—Fowlerville Review.

Yea, verily, the Review is correct in its statement regarding the status of Alex J. Groesbeck. He was elected by the people to be a real, honest-to-goodness governor, to succeed the Sleeper we were obliged to put up with for two terms. But Alex, who has a happy faculty of getting what he goes after, went before the state legislative body and had the laws rebuilt, and fixed to suit himself so that he is a dictator, pure and simple. It remains to be seen whether the people are content with a dictator or prefer a governor. This will be decided at the primary, September 12th.

Alex is apparently a wee bit warm under the collar.

Seed Plots Increase

State Potato Yield. That the use of seed plots and careful planning can be made to increase the potato yields for all Michigan growers is the contention of J. A. W. Weston, potato specialist with the Michigan Agricultural college extension division. The work is said to be comparatively simple, requiring no separate field or elaborate methods. "A few rows in the regular potato field should be planted with selected seed and given good care, such as seed treatment, proper cultivation, spraying and roguing," says Weston. "Desirable hills can then be selected at digging time for next year's seed plot, and for general planting as well.

"All seed should be treated with corrosive sublimate solution, according to directions which may be obtained from county agricultural agents or from the agricultural college. A good seed bed is also essential in the development of normal, good type tubers. Careful spraying with home made Bordeaux mixture, 4-5-50, with a high pressure sprayer so as to prevent injury from leaf hoppers and stop introduction of diseases from sick plants to the healthy ones, is another important factor to be considered. "The Rural and Green Mountain for strains of which being equal, the one may be expected to be most productive. Pick potatoes for your seed plot for ideal type of variety shallow eye, oval, short, and weighing from six to nine ounces. Cut into about four pieces, splitting the bud eye and discarding any tubers showing discoloration, especially in the region of the stem end."

Wonderful Pageant of War

After the Civil war had been fought and won, the soldiers of the Army of the Potomac and of Sherman's army, to the number of more than 200,000, marched in a grand review through the streets of Washington. This magnificent pageant of the war, reviewed by President Johnson and by Grant and Sherman and other generals, was the supreme pageant of all time to the soldiers and the people who had fought in or supported the war for the Union. It was an American pageant pure and simple; it was viewed by the representatives of foreign nations but curiously, and with respect for the surely proved and now triumphant power of the American republic. For two whole days, the 23rd and 24th of May, 1865, regiment after regiment, corps after corps, cavalry, artillery, infantry, subsidiary branches of the service, the sanitary commission—the Civil war equivalent and forerunners of the Red Cross—swung down Pennsylvania avenue in the full pride of their war-stained uniforms of blue, and bearing the tattered flags of a thousand battles. No one who witnessed that great final parade will ever forget it.

To Those in France

This is the memorial to the Americans who died in the World war, erected in New Orleans by the American Legion party of that city. Opposite the memorial inscription at the base of the shaft is the first verse of "In Flanders Fields," and a bed of poppies surrounds the monument. At the top, where the world-surrounding eagle of the marines is shown, are also, on the other sides, the emblems of the army, navy and air service. The lantern effect is to carry out the idea of the dead holding on high the torch of patriotism.

Deeds Will Be Remembered.
The World war veterans join with those of the Civil war in Memorial services with a more personal and sympathetic feeling than they know five years ago. The Civil war was a more real event than it was when they studied about it in their school history or even when they heard its tales as told by those who had fought its battles. As they miss and mourn for their own lost comrades, they realize a little the grief that the loss of thousands in the other war brought to every community. They have a reverence for and a nearness to the aged veterans that they did not have before, and if they have imagination they will look forward and see themselves advanced in years and will wonder if their own services will be remembered. They may be sure that they will not be forgotten. America never forgets her soldier sons.

Youths in Civil War Armies.
The fact that thousands of men are still alive who fought in the Civil war is perhaps one of the most illuminating facts which we can find about it. For it shows that boys, mere children, in fact, were impelled to enter the struggle by emotional strong emotions that carried them through it and it shows that the cause was desperate enough to need them.

The World's Lowest Priced Fully Equipped Automobile

$525 F. O. B. FLINT, MICH.

Price subject to change without notice.

Quality Product—Quantity Price
Chevrolet is the chief quantity product of the world's largest producer of quality automobiles. Only great engineering, research, manufacturing and financing capacity made possible so fine and complete an automobile for so small a price. Chevrolet now leads all standard fully equipped cars in volume of sales, proving that it makes good in service and represents today's greatest motoring value.

Cost Least Per Mile and Per Year
Chevrolet costs least per mile in consumption of gasoline, oil and tires. It costs least per year because of small price and lowest repair bills. It delivers the most economical transportation available in motoring, yet in construction and appearance it is a credit to its builders and its owners. It has standard 3-speed transmission. Before buying any car at any price it will pay you to investigate Chevrolet.

Forestry Students To Camp in North Woods.

Studying actual field conditions and rubbing elbows with the practical life of forest rangers, students of forestry classes at the Michigan Agricultural college will camp in the woods of northern Michigan during the coming summer.

The young foresters will live in a real logging camp, on the grounds of the Antrim Iron Company in Kalkaska county. Here they will put in old fashioned lumberjack hours, learning the business of timber cruising, land surveying, and logging from the ground up.

The camp, which is an annual feature of the college work, will be in charge of Prof. P. L. Buttrick and Prof. A. L. Garratt of the M. A. C. forestry department. Twenty students will be included in the camp roll, all of whom are preparing to enter active service in the forestry profession.
