There were seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren present. A lovely time was had with the aid of the victrola, two radios and last but not least the big chicken dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rice returned to Lansing Monday.

TO MAKE RAIN VISOR FOR ANY AUTOMOBILE

Tin Device Prevents Fogging of Driver's Vision.

Elements Kept From Striking Glass and is Great Help in Stormy Weather—When Enamelled Suitably It is Not Conspicuous.

When it rains against the windshield the view of the road is uncertain and chances of accident are increased. Windshield cleaners are good, but they keep one working. This visor has been devised to prevent the elements from striking the glass at all and is a great help to drivers in stormy weather. As most automobiles keep their tops up during winter, it can be fastened permanently in place, for that season at least. Cut out a piece of sheet tin the desired length and so it can be bent about as shown in the perspective of the windshield edge of the visor, and should be punched with several holes so that it can be tacked to the inside of the front bow of the top. Make it just low enough so that it will ward off the snow or rain, but not too low to prevent the driver from watching the road. Be sure the side shields come as close as possible to the glass without touching, as they will help to keep drafts from sucking in the snow or rain at the sides. When enamelled a suitable color to match the car, it will not be unbecoming or conspicuous in the least. —Popular Science Monthly.

RADIATOR FOR AUTOMOBILES

Invention of Brooklyn Man Adapted for Use in Cooling Any Circulating Liquid.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing a radiator, the invention of A. Nebel of 704 Kollerbocker Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "The invention relates to liquid cooling devices, and is particularly adapted for use as a radiator for automobiles, but may be used wherever it is desirable to cool a circulating liquid. Among the objects is to provide a radiator having its parts so constructed as to bring the circulating liquid in contact with a large exposed surface whereby the liquid may be efficiently cooled, in a limited space."
