HEADLIGHT FOR AUTOMOBILE

Operated by Steering Mechanism and Always Points in Direction Car is Speeding.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing an automobile headlight control, the invention of W. Muller of Honolulu, Hawaii, says: "The invention relates to headlights operated by the steering mechanism so that the light will always point in the direction in which the car is moving. An object is to provide means operable from the steering wheel for turning the headlights so that the rays will be directed in a straight path forward of the course of travel of the machine. This device is readily applicable to any ordinary construction of automobile.

Directional Headlight Control, Patented by W. Muller.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Valve clicks and slaps are the most common engine noises.

The neglect in tightening bolts or filling grease cups often lead to trouble and frequently a breakdown.

Spring shackles, wheel bearings, steering connections and universal joints should be oiled frequently to save wear and insure smooth operation.

It is a good plan to have one's car gone over thoroughly by competent mechanics once in a while, but there are certain points that every owner can look after himself.

To slow down the engine and remain in high when crossing railway tracks is a dangerous practice. The engine may die with the car wheels on the first rail.

Percupine's Remarkable Quill. A porcupine's quill is strengthened by ribs in the same way that the iron masts of modern ships are strengthened.

Loss by Tomato Wilt. Tomato wilt causes an annual loss of more than 115,000 tons in the middle Atlantic, Gulf and Lower Mississippi states.

Overpolite Orientals.

When we come to truly groveling politeness there are the orientals. So anxious is the native of Japan to exalt his friend or acquaintance that he sets him on a pedestal, so to speak, and lowers himself to the very dust. He will not admit that anything he himself owns is even tolerable, no matter how valuable it may be, and to speak with the slightest degree of tolerance of anything he owns is, in his opinion, to arrive at the very zenith of impoliteness.

Fortune Told by the Pansy.

The streaks on the pansy are supposed to foretell destiny. If the petal plucked is marked with four lines, signifies hope; five, hope sprung from fear; leaning toward the left, a life of trouble; leaning toward the right, prosperity unto the end; if the center one is longest, Sunday will be the wedding day; eight lines denote sickness; nine, a changing heart; ten on one petal foretells riches; eleven a large family.
