Roasters!

Roasters!

A FEAST FIT FOR THE GODS

That's what you will say if you ever eat Turkey cooked in one of our Roasters.

We have studied this subject of cooking and cooking utensils until we know it, and we have gathered together the best appliances we can find. For Thanksgiving we have the finest assortment of Roasters you ever saw at one time.

We bought all these a long time ago and prices were right then. We can sell them right now for less than others.

A CORN POPPER

is a very necessary article for Thanksgiving. We have a new round one that is a winner. Just look it over. The square, long handled one is in stock, too, of course.

EGGS Plus HEALTH

A Poultryman asked us these questions—"What advantages am I to receive if I feed Egg Mash? Will I get more eggs?" Our answer was, "If you keep chickens you can well afford to consider other points in addition Just Eggs. In the past it has been the aim of a great many poultrymen, merely, to Get Eggs. Today poultrymen agree that there are additional things to consider. The Health and Resistance of the laying hen, also the fertility and hatchability of the eggs are very important factors."

Bearing all these factors in mind, we can safely recommend

DICKINSON'S GLOBE EGG MASH

and

either of which will help to keep the flock in a healthy condition and to produce many eggs.

The Golden Key class of the M. E. Sunday School was taught by Miss Mildred Wallace last Sunday. Next Sunday the lesson will be presented by Mrs. Sancer J. Heaney. Miss Ernestine Pierce will teach the Sunday following Thanksgiving day. The Wednesday evening meeting was held this week. The topics as usual were interestingly presented.

WANTED!

Every able-bodied man in Clarenceville is urged to help with the "bridge building bee" on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 24th.

The purpose is to save the creek back of the school, which is known as the "perpetual." Necessary materials will be on the ground but men are asked to bring tools. Supper will be served by some of the wives.

WAR TUNNELS IN GLACIERS

Some of Those Dug by Italian and Austrian Soldiers in 1916 are Still Usable.

In that group of the Teton mountains of which Mount Ortley and the Koenig Spitz form the loftiest peaks, can be seen what are perhaps the most curious war remains. At an altitude of 11,000 feet above the sea level, the vesting snows, there still exist, in the ice of the glaciers, "tunnels" dug by Italian and Austrian soldiers.

These trenches, which replaced trenches, have been preserved by the cold, which never allows the ice to melt, and though the majority have been destroyed by the motion of the glaciers, a few, in slow-moving parts of the ice, are still visible and, indeed, practicable.

The most beautiful, and probably the largest, leads from a Zebra glacier to the Hillarys glacier, about 2,000 yards long, at an altitude level of 11,000 feet. It is four and one-half feet by six and one-half feet high.

The beauty of this tunnel is that its depth below the ice surface varies from four and one-half feet to eight feet, so that no artificial illumination is required, the sunlight penetrating through the compact and bubble-free ice to shed a greenish, alpine light, giving one the impression of being in a submarine grotto, such as fairy tales describe.

The majority of the tunnels are much deeper so that torches must be used.

Since all the glaciers are in constant, even if slight, motion, these tunnels have all had their shape changed. As the middle of the glacier moves faster than the sides, in some cases the tunnels, though remaining intact at both ends, gradually closes up at the center. Various methods of digging the galleries were tried, but only one exceeded being with special small picks—Cincinnati-Enguire.

HOUSEHOLD WORK WITHOUT LABOR

A home where electrical appliances are used is a home from which the usual hard and tiring labor is banished.

Electricity is the housewife's cheapest and most efficient servant. It will do the week's washing with speed and thoroughness, at a cost for current of about 4 cents—and no labor.

Your ironing, your sweeping, or your dishwashing will be done at a cost for current of from 1-2 cent to 1 1/2 cents an hour—and no labor.

Come in and see us about this.
