

Jaycees In 4 Communities Pick 6 Outstanding Men

Observer Newspapers Publisher Philip H. Power led the list of outstanding young civic leaders and educators honored by four area Jaycees clubs. Jaycees in Livonia, Plymouth, Farmington and Redford Township announced their selections Monday night. Distinguished service awards will be made Thursday in Garden City by the Jaycees and in Westland by a group of civic organizations. Power has been active in the Livonia Family Y fund drive, the Farmington Community Center, the chambers of commerce of two communities, mental health and family service boards in Wayne County, and the Haber Political Reform Commission of the Democratic Party of Michigan. Livonia's outstanding educator was judged to be Albert J. Butler, 26, a science teacher at Emerson Junior High School and a student activities director there. Butler has been active in the Livonia Youth Inc. program and the teachers' union bargaining team.

PLYMOUTH HONORED Dr. Gary E. Hall, 34, a dentist in town since he graduated from the University of Detroit in 1963. Dr. Hall has been a leader in forming a teen center, wrote the tenets for Youth Inc., helped found an organization to give financial support for Our Lady of Providence's Workshop for the mentally retarded, and chaired the chamber of commerce education committee. He also served on a school district citizens advisory committee and gave help to such organizations as the Girl Scouts and the vocational education committee of Schoolcraft College.

FARMINGTON JAYCEES made only one award to Paul Barber, outstanding young educator. Barber, 25, is director of the Farmington Community Band and served as an advisor to the school district on music matters. Currently at Farmington Junior High, Barber is scheduled to become head of the music department of Harrison High School, the district's third high, when it opens in fall.

REDFORD JAYCEES gave two awards—one to an outstanding young man and the other to a distinguished citizen. Donald Jeter, a Nabisco salesman and Redford resident, was named outstanding young man. He is a former Jaycees vice president and in each of his eight years in the organization won "sparkplug" awards for outstanding service. He was also voted outstanding Jaycee in 1965.

Jeter is president of the North Redford Little League, where he has been a manager for baseball and basketball during the past three years. Dr. Hugh M. Wren, a chiropractor, was named outstanding citizen. He was founder of the Redford Chamber of Commerce in 1948 and served a second term as president in 1963. He is active in the Lions Club program for the blind, American Red Cross, Civil Defense, Lolla Valley Masonic Lodge and St. Paul Presbyterian Church.

Price Heads GM's City Committee

Harrison T. "Zing" Price, manager of Chevrolet's Spring & Bumper plant, has been appointed chairman of General Motors' Livonia Plant City Committee by GM Vice Chairman George Russell. He succeeds F. Harger Green, Fisher Body plant manager.

Other members serving on the committee from Chevrolet are John F. Kispert, resident comptroller; and Marshall F. North, personnel director. In addition to Green, Fisher Body members are J. Lyman Bryan Jr., personnel director, and Melvin W. Haselhuber, resident comptroller. William G. Quigley, GM's regional public relations manager, is also a member.

The committee is responsible for guiding and coordinating the corporation's community relations activities in the area.

Price was named manager of the Chevrolet plant in 1965 and has been president of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce for the past two years.

Auto Club Promotes

James G. Moffat, 47, former manager of Automobile Club of Michigan's Lansing division office, has been named assistant general manager of the $70,000-member organization. He succeeds Harry Y. Rogan who retired after 50 years service with the Auto Club.

Moffat, of East Lansing, joined Auto Club in 1951 as a membership counselor at Pontiac. "Moffat's hobby is golf. In the 1964 Buick Open Pro-Am contest, he teamed with Ohio professional Bob Shave Jr. to tie for first place with Julius Boros foursome.

IT WAS COLD outside and in for this lovely, bare-faced little girl who was on display for two days last week at Wonderland Center, Plymouth and Middle Belt. The girl, who does this sort of thing for a living, lies on her back and has no food or water for 48 hours. Photographer Harry Maunhe had to get on top of the set for this downward-looking portrait. Kadish To Run For Kuhn's Seat

Kuhn Lauds Milliken's Message

Paul Kadish, Livonia Democrat, has announced his candidacy for the 14th District State Senate seat now held by Republican George Kuhn. His announcement came on the eve of the Democratic Party's political reform convention last weekend, and during it he said, "I'm getting a taste of what it's like to be a candidate. Kadish was criticized by fellow Livonian Ron Marlowe, chairman of the Wayne 19th Democratic party organization, for voting against him on a key issue.

PAUL KADISH

State Sen. George W. Kuhn (R-West Bloomfield) has hailed Gov. Milliken's "State of the State" message to the Legislature. Kuhn was particularly pleased by the governor's decision to cut back his originally planned budget requiring new funds of $203 million to $143 million. "This is a $60 million cutback, which indicates to me that the governor is a realist and recognizes the current problems in the economy and the demand of some 18 state senators who joined with me over the holidays in requesting a 'hold-the-line' philosophy budget in state spending for this fiscal year.

After the first quarter of 1970, if the economy indicators continue to move downward, Kuhn feels further appropriation cutbacks may be made. "I believe it is absolutely essential that we ease the plight of the taxpayers, particularly the possibility of new taxes in a year when the economy cannot stand a tax increase. "I was further impressed with his concern over such serious problems as crime, drug abuse, mass transportation, and water and air pollution," said Kuhn.

"I AM A CANDIDATE because the people of the 14th State Senatorial District must have positive responsible representation in Lansing," Kadish said in a prepared release. "Instead, we now have a senator who is stridently and illogically against everybody and everything, including many of the leaders and programs of his own party. "My program will be designed to meet the needs of the people," Kadish said. "It will be a return to moderation and progress." "The time has come to remove Kuhn and his anti-social politics from the State Senate. Judging from the encouragement I have received from so many sources to support Kuhn, I am confident that the majority of the voters in the 14th District—both Democrats and Republicans—agree we are seeking for a change.

THE 14TH SENATORIAL District includes Livonia, Plymouth, and Northville in Wayne County, and Farmington, and other western areas of Oakland County.

Kadish, 33, is partner in Kadish-Friedman Insurance Associates, 2820 West Seven Mile, Livonia. He is a graduate of Wayne State University, majoring in personnel management and industrial relations. He and his wife, Estelle, and their three children live at 1887 Farmington, Livonia.

Kadish is a member of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Livonia Jaycees, former vice chairman of the Livonia Family Y Building Fund, former member of the Citizens Committee for Livonia Park, and last year was recipient of a community leader of America award.

Hot And Cold

For lunch-carriers who want hot and cold food at the same meal: a new product that combines a wide-mouth vacuum bottle, for hot foods, soups and beverages, with an insulated snack jar for cold salads and desserts.

The two snap together with a ring to be carried as a single unit. Each part also can be used separately. The complete unit fits workmen's lunch kits.

Seals Back

The Alaska seal, a hardy seagoing mammal once in danger of extinction, has reappeared in the California coast to breed again for the first time in more than 100 years.

The Values Of Adults

EDITOR: In a recent article, Livonia Supt. R.H. Upton questioned the values of adults as compared to those of our youth. As a parent, I must confess I grow weary of defending the values of my generation, but here goes again. "A senior generation that spends untold millions to send their offspring on to higher education, provides them with health and dental care unrivaled by any other nation, donates more generously of their time and money to charities than any country on earth and pays local, state and federal taxes "out of sight" to support countless programs to improve our American way of life can't be all bad." Yule Bright At Hospital

EDITOR: Members of our staff join me in expressing our appreciation to the many readers of the Observer-Newsweekers who have helped us remember, during the Christmas season, our "forgotten patients." In addition to many gifts for individual patients, several organizations and employes groups devoted their generous contributions to special needs throughout our eleven units. With such sharing, Christmas at Northville State Hospital indeed was brighter. LOUIS J. SCHULTZ, Director Community Relations
