Presbyterian Church Is Setting For Wedding

Janet Lynn George and Alvin Hobbs Larson repeated their marriage vows before family and friends in a holiday wedding Dec. 27 in the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

Her attendants wore moss green velvet and carried holly and red carnations. Patricia George was maid of honor for her sister and the bridesmaid was Susan Anderson of Seattle, sister of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's brother, John Larson, was best man and the ushers were Steven Anderson of Seattle, Gary Dunbar and James Randall Jr.

MRS. GEORGE wore an aqua silk and wool belted dress. Mrs. Larson was in pink and green printed silk taffeta. The reception was held in the Mayflower Meeting House.

The new Mrs. Larson is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and teaches emotionally disturbed children in Ypsilanti. Her husband has degrees from Yale University and the University of Michigan in the field of finance and is serving with the U.S. Army in Vietnam.

The lighting rod did not originate with Benjamin Franklin. A Hebrew book written in the 8th century, a thousand years before Franklin, contains an ominous reference to the Lightning Conductor. The reference found in Chapter VII of Tosephta Sabbath reads as follows: "Those who erect iron posts in their gardens on the Sabbath may do so providing the rods are put there as a protection against lightning."
