

Tots science fair

Three-year-old Chris Greening, a student at Nardin Park Community Nursery, came to class dressed as a mouse for Halloween, but took time away from the party to examine a pine cone with a magnifying glass. The display is one of several that will be set up for tots when the nursery hosts its Preschool Science Fair from 1-3 p.m. Wednesday, in the school in Nardin Park Methodist Church, 29887 Eleven Mile Road. Three- and 4-year-olds are invited without charge to try their hand at the simple science experiments. (Staff photo by Randy Borst)

C. Kelloggs mark 60th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kellogg, long-time residents of Farmington, were guests of honor at a dinner planned as a surprise by their children in celebration of their 60th wedding anniversary. Fifty family members gathered for the surprise party immediately after church services in Coronado Baptist Church last Sunday. Cecil and Ruth Kellogg were married Nov. 3, 1929, in the home of her sister near Fowlerville. They made their first home in Farmington. Except for one fall during the Depression when Kellogg sought work in Flint, the couple have lived here. The party was hosted by their two children, Arlene Ripaldi and Cecil C. Kellogg Jr., both of Farmington. They are also the parents of the late Wanda Daugherbaugh, and great grandparents to 15. Kellogg worked for the Detroit United Railway (DUR) as a mechanic in a garage once located on Grand River near Orchard Lake Road. When the inter-urban runs ceased in 1927, he worked for the Farmington Lumber Company, driving horses to deliver coal and lumber. Later he took the position there of yard foreman and held that job until his retirement in 1960.

During that time, they lived in several Farmington homes. They built the one they are living in now, on Gill Road, 25 years ago and have no plans to live elsewhere.

BIRMINGHAM

The main setting of this extraordinary novel is the stunning landscape of South Africa, but vivid episodes also take place in Indonesia, France, Holland and England. The dramatic presentation of actual and fictional characters in a background of historical events is a narrative technique of which Mr. Michener has long been the acknowledged master—and never more powerfully than here.

The story begins 15,000 years ago with a clan of small brown people—the San, later called "Bushmen"—who are facing a crisis. A beautiful lake, long the center of their lives, is drying up, and they must move across a hostile African desert to seek better conditions. The hardships overcome by this intrepid band—hunters, wanderers, artists—are minor compared with what will eventually confront those who come after them. Some of these are next shown in the 15th century toiling in the gold mines that enrich the black empire of Zimbabwe. They are overseen by Nxumalo, who has achieved power and fortune in that great city and who is an ancestor of one of the
