McLaren Mustang

The McLaren Mustang will be one of the featured cars at this year's auto show. The concept car is powered by Ford's 2.3-liter turbocharged engine and features Firestone HPR tires, BBS wheels, Koni shocks, Stewart-Warner instruments, a roll bar, Recaro seats, an engine dress-up package and several other custom touches. An unusual feature of the design is that the flared fenders and front air dam direct air to both front brakes and through the functional waste-gate hood.

mobile's 23 models in 1981 — that makes the economical power plant available on all Oldsmobile car lines except Omega.

The Omega ES is new for 1981 and offers the compact car buyer an American car with continental flair. The option has a soft front end with bumper color matching the car body. The grille and headlamp bezels are bright, and a wide body side molding blends with the molded-in rubber rub strips.

Black-out window moldings, black pillar appliques together with bright roof drip moldings accent the side appearance. The special ES appearance is completed with black tail lamp bezels. The ES 2500 is available only with the 2.5-liter engine, and the 2.8-liter engine powers the ES 2800.

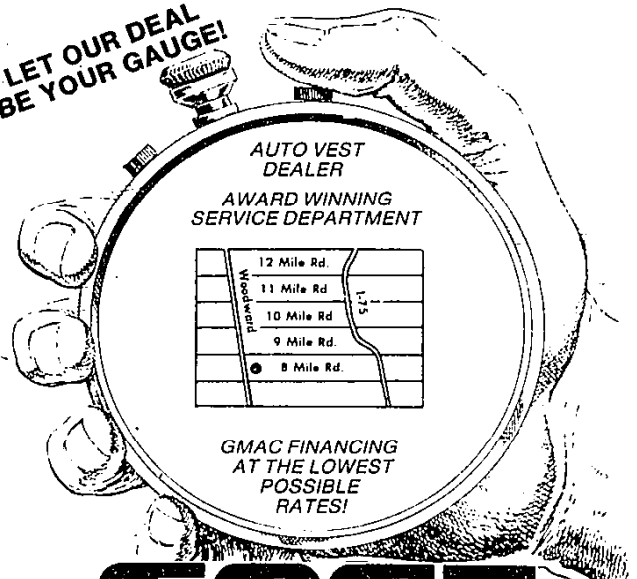

The designer appearance package includes two popular firemist colors.
