Nineteen years ago you couldn't have gotten Dave Diles to do anything for the community.
On Tuesday the ABC sportscaster stopped off at the annual Farmington Area Jaycee Prayer Breakfast and admitted just that to a gathering of civic and business leaders. But two decades of personal ups and downs has taught him there's more to life than self-indulgence.
Back from a week of Super Bowl-commitments in New Orleans, Diles shared some thoughts about his change of lifestyle.
"Dan Pastorini is the personification of the word wasteful," said Diles, referring to the Oakland Raider quarter-back who lost his starting job earlier this year through injury.
"There is no evidence that he cares

"I did that."

But divorce proceedings, helping a child who at one time was crippled and his father's death forced Diles to take another look at life.

"I CAN'T BE an extension of his life. But when you had L.B. Diles as a fa-ther, it is an almost impossible quest. It's not in me to be as good as my fa-ther," he explained.

Diles discounts wealth as the only Diles discounts wealth as the only measure of success, noting that his father never made more than $7,000 a year, raised five children, three of whom went to college.

"When I was 19, I knew it all," said Diles, who had graduated from college by that time. But his father helped to dent which Diles' mother called "licen-tious."

His father wrote him a letter, which ms rather wice min and read in part as low physically as you appear morally, a snake's hind end would look like heaven."

But his father's death was a turning says he personifies what is wrong to-day, not only in sports, but in American society in general.

"I see Dan Pastorini as the modern athlete who only cares about himself," said Diles, who believes many profes-sional athletes are interested only in making more and more money. "What has happened to sports?" asked Diles. The Super Bowl, he added, tunifies what's wrong.

"You have 75,000 fans in various states of sobriety, and 1,300 media people. It has become like a war. You can't possibly cover it," he said.
"There is nothing artistic or creative. The game has become secondary to the presentation."
Some people's lifes have taken on the same meaning, he said. "They let things take priority over that which is important."

Solar advocates plan workshop

The Wayne State University and Detroit Safe Energy Coalitions jointly will sponsor a workshop on "Photovollaic Cells/Solar Electricity." The event will take place from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 31, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 32, and Jan.

Dr. Richard Komp will be featured.
He has taught physics and astronomy at Western Kentucky University, has built a passive solar heated house (1970) and has eight patents registered. Komp has researched solar energy and photovoltaic cells for many years.
Purpose of the workshop is for Komp between them. Participants will build photovoltaic cell ard how to make them. Participants will build photovoltaic cell arrays used to supply electric power.

Fee for the workshop is $35 to cover the cost of materials. A free potluck lunch and drinks will be provided on Saturday and coffee, tea and refresh-ments on Sunday.

A PINCH of baking soda keeps cream from curdling when poured over acid fruits and berries. One telephone call will bring results when you call your Observer & Eccentric Classified Ads.
