

The Retarded: a look inside

Staff
photos
by Bill
Bresler

Story on Page 3A

Kevin, a retarded man in his early 30s, likes to hold hands with visitors to the institution.

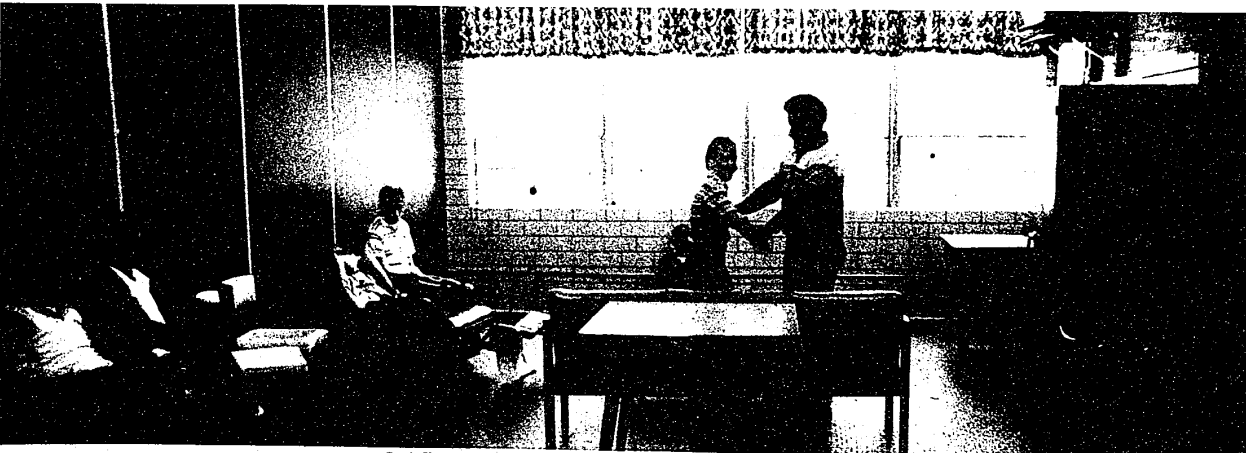

Group home employee Eleanor Johnson cleans up the breakfast dishes while chatting with resident Carol.

A physically handicapped person likes to sport radio station promotional bumper stickers on the back of his wheelchair.

"Welcome to our nest" is the message at the front door of the Wentworth house.

Curtis Young, an attendant at the Northville Center, supervises eight men in Group Nine.

04E