said. "We've already got plenty of laws to protect us but we're still being robbed." The image of coin and metal dealers is sullied, Martini said, because of criminals, not the nature of the business.

"If leather went up tomorrow, people would be out stealing shoes," Martini says.

Police seek abductor

there have been several cases of strangers trying to lure neighborhood children away. "I've heard a lot of children say 'Someone tried to stop me, but I kept on going,'" she said.

"Last summer, someone tried to get my 8-year-old son into a car.

"Plus there was a man here six months ago who tried to get a little girl into his car right in front of her own house. "Now that's bold."

Funds sought

ing the present drive will be matched on a two-to-one basis with funds from a Slocum family grant. Cash contributions are being solicited from individuals, organizations and business firms. Receipts for tax credit purposes will be forwarded on request.

If desired, gifts to the museum fund may be registered as memorial tributes. All donors will be acknowledged in the Farmington Observer.

The historical commission is also registering area volunteers interested in serving on the museum staff. For more information, call 478-6349 or 478-4125.

Hills resident joins Hunters

Barbara Brewer, a Farmington Hills resident, has joined the sales staff of Hunters Ridge, a condominium development here. Ms. Brewer, who has experience in paralegal researching and real estate sales, becomes a sales associate with Home Marketing of America-Midwest, Inc., a unit of American Inesco, the developer of Hunters Ridge. Located on a 67-acre site on 14 Mile Road near Orchard Lake Road, Hunters Ridge features 487 units of stylish homes and village houses ranging in price from $77,000 to $200,000.

save energy

Combine trips whenever possible to avoid unnecessary use of your car. If each car owner could eliminate one short trip a week—the nation's gasoline bill could be cut by 7%.
