

Murder suspect faces another charge

By MIKE SCANLON

A Farmington Hills man may face a second charge of murder in connection with the stabbing death of 45-year-old Livonia woman in her home the morning of Feb. 8.

After some six hours of testimony in a Tuesday preliminary examination, 16th District Court Judge James Mies ruled that the prosecution may amend its complaint and seek an added charge of murder in commission of a felony against Wade Gregg, 22. Mies also ordered Gregg examined at a state forensic center to determine if he is competent to stand trial.

The examination will continue March 10. Gregg has been charged previously with first degree murder in the slaying of Juanita Waluzak, the attempted rape of one of her daughters and the stabbing of a second daughter's boyfriend.

Described by an acquaintance as a community college student and an unemployed auto worker, Gregg allegedly tried to rape one of Mrs. Waluzak's daughters and stabbed another daughter's boyfriend in the same spree.

Gregg is also charged with first degree criminal sexual conduct and two counts of assault with intent to commit murder. He is being held without bond in Wayne County Jail.

Evidence of premeditation, or forethought must be proved to convict a defendant of first degree murder. To convict a defendant of felony murder, the prosecution must only prove that a felony crime was being committed when the victim died.

Defense attorneys David and James Lawson objected to the felony murder charge inclusion.

David Lawson told Mies he might have cross-examined prosecution witnesses differently had a charge of murder during a felony been filed before the examination began.

AT TUESDAY'S hearing Assistant Medical Examiner James Barnhill testified that Mrs. Waluzak suffered both strangulation and two stab wounds, any one of which would have been fatal. Determining the exact cause of death is impossible, Barnhill testified.

He said she was stabbed 12 times in the neck, with two wounds piercing major arteries.

Barnhill said his autopsy of Mrs. Waluzak found no evidence "one way or the other" of sexual relations or rape. He said the alcohol content of her blood at the time of autopsy was 21 percent.

The medical examiner said Mrs. Waluzak's injuries included damage to the face, perhaps caused by being beaten or by the knife on the head, "with her face against a firm surface, such as a floor."

Testimony disclosed that Mrs. Waluzak's partially clothed body was found on a living room couch.

Sandra Ann Waluzak, Mrs. Waluzak's 20-year-old daughter, testified that her mother introduced her to Gregg about 3 a.m.

The next time she saw Gregg, she testified, "I was asleep and I opened up my eyes and he was right on top of me. He said that he was going to get me and he was sweating and then he threw me on the floor."

"HE STARTED beating me on the face and the chest and hitting me all over and then I started screaming for my sister," she testified.

Testimony indicated the sister, Chris Tina, was asleep in an adjoining bedroom when Sandra Ann's cries woke her. She came into the bedroom and attempted to intervene.

Sandra Ann said Gregg threw Chris Tina against the floor, then ran out of the room.

"I ran out of the room into my ma's room and my sister ran into her room and I locked the door and I tried to get out" through a window, but "I couldn't get it open," she said.

She said that Gregg then kicked open the door to her mother's room and came in with a knife in one hand and a dinner fork in the other.

"It was one of those butcher knives. It was from our kitchen. He was holding them up to me and he told me to get on the bed," Sandra testified.

"I told him no, and I just kept pleading with him and I told him I was only 11 years old. He just kept screaming at me 'Get on the bed,'" Sandra Ann testified.

"That's when he left the bedroom and when he came back, that's when he had the blood all over his hands and the knife. He kept flicking the blood. I started going. I guess, into shock."

"I started shaking a lot and I started humming. I don't know, I don't know why. That's when he grabbed me on the arm and that's when I got blood on my arm and I knew it was my mom's blood."

Sandra testified she managed to get away from Gregg and flee the house to seek assistance from a neighbor who called police. Bandaged across the nose from a cosmetic operation initially scheduled the day of the alleged incident, Ms. Waluzak wept intermittently throughout her testimony.

CHRIS TINA Waluzak said that after she was knocked to the floor by Gregg she went back to her bedroom and woke her boyfriend, Craig Schmidt, 22. She said Schmidt was dressing when Gregg entered the bedroom.

Schmidt and Gregg were high school classmates, and Ms. Waluzak testified that after the two looked at each other, Schmidt said, "Wade, what the hell are you doing here?"

"That's when he (Gregg) stabbed him (Schmidt) fell down to the floor. He just said 'Dear God.'"

Schmidt, stabbed in the abdomen, remains hospitalized although he is expected to recover.

Chris Tina said that after Schmidt was stabbed, "I pushed (Gregg) out of the room. I heard him remark: 'I'm not a bad guy,'" she testified.

Chris Tina said she barricaded the door with a bed and tried to open a window when she saw Gregg running down the street.

She said she decided to leave by the front door, and while doing so found her mother's body sprawled on a sofa. Ms. Waluzak testified she knew her mother was dead.

She said she then drove Schmidt to Roosevelt Hospital for aid.

Various police officers testified to their respective roles in arresting Gregg, who was found on foot about a mile from the scene, and in processing evidence.
