

Tots learn how to put on some new faces

Goldie the Clown came to town this week all the way from Clown Alley. He stumbled into the Farmington Hills Nursery School.

Staff photos
by Randy Borst

Clowning around

The kids at the Farmington Hills Nursery School got to smear white paint all over their faces Tuesday and nobody even yelled at them.

Regina Parker (left) helps Jennifer Farmwell, 4, with her clown makeup. (Staff photos by Randy Borst)

With tips from Goldie the Clown, the kids learned that every clown's face is unique.

Here's what Alicia Sobel looked like when she was done.

PERRY ELLIS SURFACES WITH STRIPES. LIFEGUARD STRIPES! His steady-as-you-go flow of red and navy cotton crosses. Your new natural habitat for spring and summer-American style. A hug of a sweater that snugly crosses and buttons on both sides. Wear it alone, as shown, or under other pieces-in any season. And below, a gentle wave of pleats on pants that hit proportionately one inch above the ankle. Sweater, S-M, $120. Pants, misses' sizes 4 to 10, $130. From The Woodward Shops, at Hudson's Northland only.

THE
WOODWARD
SHOPS
hudson's