

Hills man arrested in cocaine incident

Bloomfield Township police have arrested a Farmington Hills man, charging him with delivering cocaine to a Bloomfield Township doctor.

Robert William Fischer Jr. pled not guilty at his arraignment Thursday before 48th District Judge Carl F. Ingraham.

Fischer, 24, was placed on $2,000 cash or surety bond and is scheduled for a preliminary examination before Judge Ingraham on April 30.

Detective Randy Armstrong said Fischer "walked into his arrest."

Armstrong said police were searching the home of Dr. William H. Carranza's home in Bloomfield Township on March 20 when Fischer arrived there. Armstrong alleged police had "prior information that Carranza was supposed to get a delivery by Fischer" that night.

He said Fischer walked past a van belonging to Waterford Township police. The van, identified as such, was parked in Carranza's driveway.

Armstrong said Fischer was arrested April 6 after crime labs confirmed that it was cocaine he delivered.

Meanwhile Carranza, who was charged with possessing cocaine, waived his preliminary examination in 48th District Court and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court.

Kids jump for heart

Third-grader Jennifer Kalpio (left) and fourth-grader Wayne Prysdale, both of Grandview Elementary School in Clarenceville School District, give their hearts a workout. For 2½ hours, students jumped rope to raise funds for the Michigan Heart Association. Working in teams of six, these third- through sixth-grade students collected more than $3,000. Sean McElheran, a fifth-grader, led the efforts with $157. Wayne Prysdale and Maurice Marchand led the fourth-graders in collections. Top fund-raisers in the third grade were Laurie Ann Helton and Jennifer Kalpio and in the sixth grade, Matt Grobel. Clarenceville's Botsford Elementary School also got in on the fun and raised more than $1,000. The two schools have already collected more than $4,000 and the money is still coming in, according to Frank Hickey, Grandview physical education teacher who coordinated the project.
