To dedicate Ford library

The Gerald R. Ford Library will be dedicated on April 27 with Ford, the 38th president of the United States, delivering the main address.
 Because of space limitations, attendance at the dedication is by invitation only.
 The library, housing papers of Ford's presidency, is on the North Campus of the University of Michigan, his alma mater. The library is similar in design to the neighboring Bentley Historical Library, where Ford's congressional and vice presidential papers had been housed earlier. All are now in the Ford Library.
 Among the dedication guests will be donors to the national fund-raising effort which made the building possible, and associates of the former president.
