

INSIDE ANGLES

'TIS THE SEASON for tornadoes. And a three-minute siren warning will sound at 1 p.m. on Saturday, May 2 to test the Oakland County Tornado Siren System.

Don't expect to see Dorothy and Toto, this is only a test.

HURRY, HURRY, HURRY to Mercy, Mercy, Mercy. The big top is being readied at the corner of 11 Mile and Middlebelt for the annual Our Lady of Mercy fun fair May 1-3.

The grand prize in a chance drawing will be a 1981 Ford Escort. There will also be a giant garage and rummage sale in addition to carnival games and rides.

The fair committee has set a goal of raising $60,000 to help meet the private school's operating expenses.

Friday hours will be 5-10 p.m., Saturday and Sunday from noon until 10 p.m.

YOU'RE NOT ALONE, relatives of nursing home patients.

Lillian Otlander is forming a support group for those who have close ones in nursing homes. Meetings will start on May 7 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Oakland Community College Womencenter.

There's no charge. For more information, call 476-9400.

You're not alone if you're a woman considering, in the midst of or recovering from divorce.

The OCC Womencenter has divorce support groups that meet on Monday and Thursday evenings on campus.

A trained group facilitator will assist participants in gaining confidence and clarity to give direction to their own lives.

Monday sessions are in room J-308 from 8-9:30 p.m. The Thursday group meets in the same room from 7-9 p.m.

For more information, call the Womencenter at 476-9400, ext. 509.

FEMALE GYMNASTS from the Farmington Gymnastics Center scored high at a recent meet.

Tammy Short placed first in floor exercise, Lisa McCormick fifth in all-around, fourth on uneven bars, sixth in floor exercise and 10th in vaulting, Jackie Daly 10th in floor exercise.

All girls, from Farmington Hills, competed in the 9-11 years category.

Lisa Brandle of Farmington Hills placed seventh in all-around competition, second on the balance beam, fourth in floor exercise and ninth on the uneven bars.

In the Class Four team, Amy Solomon of Farmington Hills fourth in all-around competition, fourth on the balance beam and seventh on the uneven bars.

Shannon McCormick, also of Farmington Hills, placed seventh in all-around competition, fourth on the uneven bars, ninth on the balance beam and 10th in floor exercise and vaulting.

A Nadia Comaneci salute to all.

Drunk drivers eyed

the county on two-week intervals.

THOSE CORRIDORS are M-59 from Pontiac through Waterford and White Lake townships, Dixie Highway from Pontiac through Clarkston, the city of Pontiac, Woodward from Square Lake to Eight Mile, Telegraph from north of Elizabeth Lake to Eight Mile and Lapeer (M-24) from Pontiac through Oxford.

TIA's data bank shows those areas have the highest number of alcohol-related accidents. In five years prior to the enforcement program, 450 deaths, 21,000 injuries and $168 million in damages were recorded in Oakland County due to alcohol.

A 15 percent reduction was reported in the team's first year of operation, according to TIA's Jerry Fedderson.

The program is slated to be funded until May 1983 unless it's axed out of the federal budget.

The fate of apprehended drunk drivers is in the hands of the county's 32 district court judges. First-time offenders with no previous records are usually placed in a state alcohol highway safety program. Attendance at four three-hour sessions is required. If the offender successfully completes the program, judges usually allow the person to plead guilty to a lesser charge, driving while impaired.

A second offender faces mandatory restriction of his driver's license for up to two years, plus fines of up to $500 and six points on their driving record.

A driver who acquires 12 points in two years faces suspension or at least restriction of driving privileges.

Third-time offenders face a jail sentence or revocation of their license.

"The number of repeating offenders isn't great," said 47th District Judge Michael Hand.

"Most of the time, they're either alcoholics or on their way to becoming one."
