Obear leaves OU for Tennessee post

Frederick W. Obear, 45, will leave Oakland University July 1 to become chancellor of the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga (UTC). He had been OU's provost and academic vice-president since 1970. The Avon Township resident's appointment was announced by the UT board of trustees this week.

UTC, with 7,800 students, is one of four campuses of UT. Obear was among a field of 150 applicants, and President Edward Bolling said "it would be impossible to find a better candidate."

Obear joined the Oakland faculty in 1960 as an assistant professor of chemistry and later served as dean of freshmen, assistant provost, vice provost and acting provost. He had been a candidate for the OU presidency earlier this year.

The Massachusetts native earned a BA with high honors from Lowell Technological Institute and PhD from the University of New Hampshire.

Ridge hosts art show, sale

An invitational art show and sale will be held at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College in the multi-purpose room of H-Building May 15-17.

About 50 students, faculty and area artists will present mixed media including ceramics, photography, prints, paintings, woodcarvings, jewelry, metalworking and weaving.

The public is invited to an opening reception at 7-9 p.m. Friday, May 15. The show will continue from noon-7 on May 16 and noon-5 on May 17. A mini-restaurant will offer luncheon snacks and musicians will provide entertainment.

The Orchard Ridge Campus is on Orchard Lake Road south of I-696 in Farmington Hills.

Candlelight. Soft music. A handsome man enters, elegant and slim. It's you in Givenchy's Ivory double-breasted suit... and there isn't a woman in the room who doesn't have her eyes on you. Givenchy carves this suit with customary polish: slimly tapered, with deep side vents, narrow peak lapels, and a six-button front. Very continental in a soft ivory shade at $295. Other suits in this inspired collection are $275 to $335.
