

Summer camps offered to all ages for all interests

Summer camps come in every description you could name and a lot you never thought of.

Young people of all ages can go away to camp or stay home for day camp. They can learn outdoor skills, sports, music or art.

Their elders can go to camp too. They can enjoy activities as varied as shaping up and studying bird lore.

And then there are special experience camps, like one scheduled June 21-25 for mothers and young sons and daughters at the YMCA's Camp Cavell on Lake Huron.

That program, titled "Me and My Mom," involves a daily schedule of activities like crafts, sports, stories and nature study for the children and matinee, ball, tennis, dance exercise and drama for their mothers.

Information on the session is available by calling the YMCA downtown office, 661-9220.

Camp Cavell also has a summer of resident camp experiences for girls. A call to the same telephone number will bring its brochure.

Day camp sessions scheduled by the Livonia Family Y are typical of the YMCA programs youngsters can enjoy without leaving home.

Offering summer fun beginning June 29 this year at the Livonia facility will be Jubilee Day Camp for children 6-10, and Kiddie Kamp for the 4- and 5-year-olds.

In addition, the YMCA operates Camp Ohyesa, where day camps from area Ys are taken daily by bus. Ohyesa sessions begin June 22. Camp Nissokone in the northern Lower Peninsula is the YMCA's resident camp, and its program begins June 27.

Information on any YMCA programs is available from the Livonia Family Y, 261-2161.

BOY SCOUTS, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls have a variety of camping experiences lined up for the adventurous this summer.

Information on the boys' camping program is available by calling the organization's Detroit headquarters, 897-1985.

Girl Scout Councils in this area — Michigan Metro and Huron Valley — operate resident camps Narrin and Linden and a variety of day camps. For details call the Michigan Metro Council, 954-4475, or Huron Valley, 483-2370.

Camp Wathana, the Camp Fire Girls resident camp, will be operating June 24 through Aug. 15. Information is available through the CPG Detroit Area Council office, 833-2670.

The artistically inclined can find a variety of camping pursuits.

Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp near Whitehall has sessions June 23 through Aug. 16 for students in sixth through 12th grades and specializing in band, choir, dance, jazz ensemble and art. Write to Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp, Twin Lake, Mich. 49457, for a brochure.

The Summer Camp of the Arts, 8555 W. Nine Mile, Oak Park, will offer two three-week sessions with classes Monday through Friday for children 9-13. They will run June 22 to July 10 and July 13-31. Theater, gymnastics, dance, mime, arts and crafts and synchronized swim and sports are among the classes available.

For artistic members of the youngsters, there is a summer day camp in July and August at the University of Michigan Child Development Center. It will seek to introduce youngsters 3 1/2-6 to music, drama, art, literature, photography, nature and crafts. Call the center, 593-5425, for details.
