Cooking Steaks — Indoors Or Out Remember that steaks 1 1/4" to 1 1/2" thick should be pan-fried but steaks an inch or thicker can be broiled.
Avoid using salt on steaks until ready to serve as salt draws out natural juices and dries meat during cooking.
Steaks and chops should be at least an inch thick and at room temperature for broiling.
Slash the outside fat at one-inch intervals to prevent curling.
