

Emergency: Students practice for the unwanted

The students began arriving at the emergency room of Botsford Hospital in the morning. Each wore some type of makeup to simulate a wound and also carried a tag describing the symptoms that the injured person would be experiencing.

In an actual emergency a compound fracture, such as the one that Pam Wildason was tagged with, would have to wait while the more seriously injured patients were cared for first.

INSIDE ANGLES

WHO WERE those mounted horsewomen Memorial Day Parade officials were unable to locate after the festivities in Farmington?

The answer is on horseback were given an award for Best Mounted Group by parade officials, who were unable to locate them after the parade.

The officials don't think they were an official part of the parade, but would like to give them the award anyway.

The girls can pick up their trophies and plaques by calling Ray Heldenbrand, parade co-chairman, at the American Legion Post 190, 478-9117.

KUDOS TO Julie DuQuet on her recent appointment by Gov. Milliken to the State Board of Cosmetology.

Mrs. DuQuet is the wife of Al DuQuet of DuQuet Jewelers of Farmington. She was appointed last week. Her term expires on Dec. 31, 1983.

JUDY ANTISHIN, whose reputation as a gourmet cook grows with every workshop she gives, played to a full house in May when she held sway over her Easy and Elegant Appetizers demonstration.

Persons turned away from the workshop can still get a reservation for a duplicate workshop tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Farmington Community Center, 24705 Farmington Road.

The evening affair is also planned for women who work. For a reservation, call 477-8404.

SAVE NEWSPAPERS for Antioch Lutheran Church paper drive on June 12-13.

Workers will be in the church parking lot from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both days to receive bundled and bagged papers. The church is on the corner of 13 Mile and Farmington roads.

The main purpose of this drive, sponsored by Antioch's social ministry committee, is to aid area senior citizens in paying their utility bills.

The group's last two drives resulted in overflowing containers and a blood-pressure unit given to the Gathering Place for use by senior adults.

Proceeds were also used to purchase new garden tools for use in the Home Chore program at the Gathering Place.

This is the group's sixth paper drive.

HONORS WERE bestowed on two recent mechanical engineering graduates of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y.

They are Keith Maasrarr, graduating magna cum laude, and Stephen Ward, graduating cum laude.

Ward also won the Arthur M. Greene prize, which is awarded to a senior mechanical engineering student who has demonstrated all-around qualities most likely to lead to professional distinction.

Both graduates are Farmington High School graduates (Class of 1977).
