

Crisp and spicy apple squares are an autumn dessert

The crisp crunch of someone eating an apple fresh from the tree seems to signal that fall is here. And what could be more appropriate for the season than a warm apple dessert. These Apple-Raisin Squares are a sure pleaser to serve after a walk through the autumn color.

Arrange slices of apple and raisins in the bottom of the baking pan. Sprinkle with a crumbly mixture of margarine and spice cake mix. Bake, and while still warm, drizzle vanilla frosting, over the top for a dessert that's as quick and easy to make as it is delicious to eat.

APPLE-RAISIN SQUARES

- 1 pkg. (13.5 oz.) spice cake
- 2 tbsp. water
- 2 tbsp. margarine or butter, softened
- ½ cup sliced pared apple (about 1 medium)
- ½ cup raisins

Position oven rack and prepare cake mix as directed on package. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Sprinkle water over cake mix in small bowl; stir in margarine with fork just until crumbly (particles will be size of small peas). Arrange apple slices and raisins in pan. Sprinkle crumbly mixture over apples and raisins; press lightly. Place pan on cookie sheet on middle oven rack. Bake until top is light golden brown, 20 to 23 minutes; cool slightly. Cut a small v in top of frosting packet; drizzle frosting over cake. Serve warm. Serves 6.

Warm apple squares have raisins added for extra flavor and nutrition. They are made with a spice cake mix then drizzled with vanilla frosting. Make your own or use one that comes with the cake mix. The squares are the perfect ending for a walk through the autumn color.

Blues news

Michigan leads the nation in production of blueberries. Forty-one million pounds were harvested last year, worth $14.1 million. Approximately one-third of the harvest goes to fresh market customers while the rest is processed.
