MRS. MICHAEL J. DAVIS

Couple Exchanges Vows In Plymouth

In a ceremony in Plymouth's First United Presbyterian Church, Feb. 14, Linda Cheryl Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hudson, became the bride of Michael J. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Davis of Colon.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Henry Walsh.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long-sleeved floor-length gown of white silk, trimmed with white venise lace at the neck and wrists and down the front of the dress. She carried red roses.

Linda Chalfant of Farmington, as the maid of honor, wore a floor-length, long-sleeved gown of hot pink chiffon trimmed with a lace collar and cuffs. She carried red roses.

A dinner was held in the church hall for 150 guests. The couple will live in Northville.

Beverly Daniels, the bride's sister, and Diane Burke of Plymouth were brides maids and wore identical gowns in light pink chiffon.

The bride's niece, Robin Hudson, was the flower girl, and her nephew, Dale Hudson, was the ring bearer.

Chuck VanDeventer of Colon was the best man. Acting ushers were the bridegroom's brother, Roger Davis, and Rod Willard of Farmington.

Mrs. Hudson chose for her daughter's wedding a lavender linen coat and dress ensemble, with pearl accessories. Mrs. Davis wore a light blue, brocade coat and dress with matching accessories.

A dinner was held in the church hall for 150 guests. The couple will live in Northville.

Conversation Starters
The British Bar still wears mourning for Queen Mary who died in 1954. Her widower, King William III, directed that all British lawyers don silk robes and black court dress as mourning, but the order has been followed to the present day. According to a well-known English legal authority, "The Bar went into mourning for the Queen and never came out of mourning again." The wife, which is obligatory for both Bench and Bar, is a memento of the peruke worn by the Duke of Marlborough—Winston Churchill's ancestor.
