Skate to beat diabetes calls skaters, volunteers

More skaters and volunteers are needed for "Skate to Beat Diabetes" scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 30 and 31 at ten participating roller rinks in Mt. Clemens, Farmington Hills, Clawson, Pontiac, Newport, Brighton, Livonia, Dearborn Heights, Utica and Canton.

"Skate-a-Thon" chairman Alan Almond, evening DJ at WNIC-FM, has dubbed this year's event "Super Roll '82" as it follows by one week Super Bowl XVI.

Almond says the event gains momentum and gets to be more fun every year. This is his fourth straight year as chairman and he is getting calls of support from his listeners as much as several months in advance.

"We're all looking forward to having fun and raising some money for a great cause," says Almond.

Almond has been supported again this year by his fellow DJs who are publicizing the event on their shows.

Money raised goes for the Diabetes Association's programs of research, education, summer camping for diabetic children, and statewide detection every November in cooperation with Michigan hospitals and health departments.

Anyone can join the skate-a-thon, regardless of age. Entry forms are available at the participating rinks or by calling the American Diabetes Association at 552-0480.

Participants in this area will be skating Sunday, Jan. 31 in Donaventure, 24505 Halstead.

The grand prize to the top fundraiser is a JVC RIX Receiver, LA21CT Turntable with cartridge, and a pair of Faralax three way speakers donated by Russ Klatt of Frame Art, Birmingham, and R. Lowell Ahee of R. Lowell Ahee Jewelers, Century Plaza, Troy. For this prize you must be 16 years old and over and collect a minimum of $500.

The grand prize for youngsters 17 years old and under with a minimum collection of $200 is a Toshiba TSI FM Cassette Body Audio donated by David and Barbara Johnson of Novi.

To the two top money raisers at each rink, a pair of roller skates donated by the rink owners will be awarded and a set of Bone Fones the AM/FM Body Radio will be given.

The grand prize and rink prizes are on display at Schaak Electronics stores in the area.

All participants will receive a free Skate-A-Thon embroidered patch.

To be eligible for a prize, money must be received by Feb. 20. Prizes will be determined by the actual dollars received. One prize per skater is allowed and every winner will receive immediate notification.

Crocheting to be taught

Bridgett Marks will teach crocheting in Farmington Community Center beginning Wednesday, Jan. 27, from 1-3 p.m., and in a second class at 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Mrs. Marks is a consultant with Robert Kidd's Textures and Textiles in Birmingham and designs custom sweater patterns. Her expertise in selection of pattern and use of textual yarns offers the student a variety of choices in crocheting garments and accessories.

The student will learn how to follow instructions to form various stitches, test gauges, and construct a garment of exceptional quality.

The six-session class is $30, plus materials. Registration is at 24705 Farmington Road.

Potter talks about his work

Farmington Community Center will host "An Evening With John Glick" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 2. Glick will speak about his feelings, ambitions and inspirations and will show examples of his work as well as that of other potters.

Glick is owner of the Plum Tree Pottery on 10 Mile Road in Farmington Hills. Nationally recognized as a professional craftsman, he has done commissioned work for the vice presidential mansion in Washington, D.C.

An independent and free-spirited artist, Glick is happy in his choice of livelihood and where it is centered.

"Farmington has done a lot for me, allowed me to set up my studio and kilns and exist in the community. This makes potting a cultural act in an accessible form."

Glick will show an award-winning film by Sue Marx, with comments and reflections on the TV film of his work, shown nationally last summer.

The center is located at 24705 Farmington Road, just north of 10 Mile Road. Tickets are $5 or $4 for students and seniors.
