Instead of cartoons Saturdays, com-munity residents can watch their hori-zons expand during two design pro-grams offered by the School of Archi-tecture at Lawrence Institute of Tech-

Beginning Feb. 6, the Design Discov-ery and precollege programs will give adults and high school juniors and seniors a chance to dabble in the areas of architecture, interior architecture, and art/design.

Classes will be offered in such areas as basic design, visual communications, drawing and composition, and interior architecture/interior design.

In addition, there will be an art and architecture seminar that will include field trips to museums, art galleries and the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed Affleck House.

Participants may take one, two or three classes. All classes meet on Saturdays through June 5. Tuition for each class in the adult program is $90, and $80 in the precollege program. The seminar cost is $30. It also is estimated that up to an additional $100 (for a full that up to an additional $100 (for a full program) may be needed for materials. Registration is open through Feb. 1. For registration information, call the LIT admissions office at 356-0200.
